Getting Discouraged By Inconveniences States Hospital Director

Newton-Wellesley Hospital employees are "beginning to get discouraged" by the difficulties among the Council Health & Safety Committee. He was assisted by some 20 Order of the Arrow Scouts, who graded the written work and helped in the demonstrations.

Each of the four sessions was organized to contain a happy balance between theory and practice. There was some lecturing, written examinations, live demonstrations and practice work. A visitor to the "Y" on any of the Saturdays the class was in progress would become convinced that the Scouts were learning all about pressure points, tourniquets, artificial respiration, bandaging—everything

Rawson Flays ABC Action On Licenses

Calls Action on Newton Matter a Violation of Home Rule Right

Although the House of Representatives turned down an order for a probe of the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission, Representative George E. Rawson (R-Newton) told the committee hearing the matter a story of what happened in Newton but he made no charges.

He stated the facts were that many applicants for a license had been made in Newton and that Newton's Licensing Board, a non-political board whose decision was previously upheld by the ABC, granted license to two disabled veterans.

The ABC, he stated, took the license away from those men and gave it to two others. He wanted an investigation to find out why ABC rode roughshod over the Newton Board. This has also happened in other places, he said, and that this one case alone would justify an investigation.

He termed the action of the ABC wanton and capricious, and a violation of home rule. He also expressed the opinion that the ABC was tyrannical and unreasonable.

1703 Names Put On Voting List in City

43,089 Now Eligible to Vote in Primaries to Be Held This Month

A total of 1703 new voters have been added to the voting list here as a result of the registration which was held between the November city elections and the deadline of registration prior to the April presidential primaries which expired last Friday night.

The total number now eligible to vote in the April primaries here is 43,089. It is believed that the large number of registrants is due to the interest in the Eisenhower and Taft campaigns among Republicans and the Kennedy drive among the Democrats.

Registrants were not asked their party affiliations but according to City Clerk Frank M. Grant, approximately 100 voters changed their party designations since the first of the year, mostly from Republican to Democrat.

Interest shown in the primary registration indicates that a record number of voters will be enrolled for the November election, and officials are predicting a vote cast then in excess of 45,000.

The Registrar of Voters who handled the large number of registrants those past several weeks are: Norman J. Mitchell, Thomas F. Donnelly, Charles J. Doherty and City Clerk Grant.

Large Gathering Attends Dedication

Last Sunday evening, at 7:00 o'clock, a distinguished group of guests along with members of the congregation participated in the dedication of the new home for Temple Reym, 321 Chestnut Street, West Newton.

William Levenson, chairman of the evening's program, opened the evening's festivities by having the spiritual leader of Temple Reym, Rabbi Harold D. Kaslow, offer an opening prayer. This was followed by everyone present singing the national anthem, led by Samuel Hurwitz. A few words of welcome were then extended by the president of Temple Reym, Dr. Davis E. Perlmuter. Some of the distinguished guests that were present then said a few words in honor of the dedication. Such guests included His Honor, Mayor Theodore Lockwood, Rabb Joseph Shubow, Reverend Sidney Adams, Dr. Albert I. Gordon, Rabbi Irving A. Mandel, and Benjamin Wood. A bronze key to the building was then presented to Dr. Davis Perlmuter, president of Temple Reym, by Abraham Markir, chairman.

OUR NEW ENGLAND Labor Leaders, Management Must Seek Corrective Action To Cure Chronic Textile Ills

By JOHN H. CRIDER

New England's public sack cloth wearing is having very dangerous repercussions around the country and something has got to be done in a hurry to correct this widespread impression that our region is irredeemably sliding into industrial oblivion. Take just one illustration, which could be multiplied many times.

One of our largest corporations recently put out its annual report in which it proudly reported a tremendous plant expansion involving the expenditure of many millions of dollars. Hardly a week had passed when the corporation's executive offices received a hot letter from a stockholder in Iowa, a retired gentleman who evidently had plenty of time not only to read annual reports, but the newspapers as well.

The stockholder was irate, scolded the corporation's management for putting so much money into a region which, he stated dogmatically, was well known to be on the skids. That much was bad enough, but what followed hurts even more. The executives of this corporation were caught like little boys found with their hands in the cookie jar. They simply didn't know how to answer their stockholder. Evidently, they too had been reading the newspapers.

The stockholder will get an answer, all right, but the executives in question had to get out of their own trough of depression and reorient their thinking in the direction of New England pluses, of which there are many. This is not to say that these gentlemen don't believe in New England. They do, but apparently had never gone to the trouble to find out why.

It's about time that we all went to a little trouble to find out why it's a good place to do business, to live, and to stay. But, at the same time we cannot afford to sit back complacently. We have problems, very real problems which are quite naturally to be found in any industrial community as old as ours.

Prototype

Lancashire, England, is a case in point. This is the oldest cotton textile manufacturing community in the world. Right now they have 65,000 workers on part time—working two or three days a week—and with the prospect for a shutdown very real indeed. This reflects what has been said in this space before, namely, that the present textile crisis is by no means solely American, but worldwide. It has been so bad that it must get better pretty soon.

Nation-

are indeed a threat. America has the strength to seek out the office holder who would tarnish his office with the acceptance of bribes or associations with gangsters. Shocking and tawdry as may recent revelations have been, it must be pointed out that men, honest, decent men, still went seeking and exposing the thieves and the crooks.

"But there is a third danger and it is the greatest by far: the indifferent citizen.

"The man or woman who neglects the obligation of citizenship is the greatest threat to this nation.

"The citizen who surrenders, who shrugs his shoulders and says, as some will do, 'all politicians are crooks' is the real danger. There is no easy way to determine which candidates are best—it demands work.

"You can get novels in capsule form these days. You can get a digest of magazine articles, you can find everything in simplified, easy form from ready mixed cake flour to orange juice already squeezed out of the orange.

"But democracy won't come that way—as the men on Heartbreak Hill find they are having a bitterly brutal and costly battle, that there is no easy way, so it is with all the obligations of democracy, there is no easy way. It must be worked at.

"We won the war because 15 million men, yes, and women, too, put on uniforms and did the job.

When one faltered there was always another there to take his place.

"We won World War II or at least that chapter in the war of the 20th century. I am not sure what we are in at this moment, whether it is a hot peace or a cold war, or a police action, but in the flaming rice-paddies of Korea we shall win that version, but we can lose by indifference at the polling place.

"If you are a Republican, if you are a Democrat, if you are an independent, take off your coat, roll up your sleeves, and go to work.

"The most dangerous menace lurking at the fringes of democracy is the person who quits, who will not go to the polls, with whom the crusading flame of democracy has died.

"The great genius of democracy has been that it provides the tools peacefully to change the party in power and through history this has been many times. If any group grows arrogant, grows forgetful of the true public need, loses its way, becomes corrupt, then an aroused citizenry has the means to replace them."

Other items of civic interest which were taken up at the meeting were:

1. The Little League Baseball team sponsored by the Improvement Association is now completely lined up. A rummage sale for the benefit of the team will be held Saturday at the Emerson School.

2. A clean-up and paint-up campaign is sponsored by the association. Backyards, sidewalks, etc., should be cleaned up so that the district will take on a better look.

3. A light with an arrow should be placed on the Worcester Turnpike at Elliot street, so that people coming from Boston can make a left turn without being run into from eastbound traffic.

4. A letter from the State was read regarding the petition for a stop sign on Boylston street, between Rockland place and Hickory Cliff road. The State maintained a light was not necessary at this point.

Those attending the meeting were very much upset on this answer. A new petition will probably be started and a personal visit to the man in charge of traffic conditions on State highways will be made by President George Freedman and past-president Thomas Kenney. A satisfactory answer to this problem must be made. A tunnel under Boylston street was suggested by Mr. Lucas.

5. There is a broken sewer pipe running into the Charles River on the Needham side, opposite the New England Spun Silk factory. This pipe should be fixed as it is a health hazard.

6. The steps at the foot of Echo bridge on Ellis street are closed. These steps should be opened so that people can walk across the bridge.

7. The backyard of the new that would help them be prepared to give first aid where needed.

Newton Scouts who earned their First Aid Merit Badges at the class were: David Ryder of Troop 4A; James King, Robert Chisholm and Guy Smith of Troop 7; Tenny Peck of Troop 9; Bruce Harper, Glenn Rogers, James Mitchell, Harris Funkenstein and Edward Gittines of Troop 10; G. W. Turnbull of Troop 11; Richard Reynolds of Troop 16; Norman Hallas and David Ritchie of Troop 19; Agris Kalnais, Ronald Witty, Lewis Tedstone and Alan Lockwood of Troop 49; Joseph Epstein, Larry Stapin, Donald Wilson, Richard Snyder and Arthur Menard of Troop 100; and Henry Genaske, Timothy Kinchla and Richard Cronin of Explorer Post 4.

Troop 9, Troop 10 and Explorer Post 109 of Waban were combining forces on Saturday morning, April 5, to conduct a town-wide waste paper collection. The drive is being headed by Frederick Nobbs and Hugh Harwood, chairmen of the two Troop Committees, who are asking the citizens of Waban to gather up all their old magazines, newspapers and rags, and leave them neatly tied in bundles in front of their homes. The Boy Scouts and their dads will do the rest—and will even help in tying the bundles if Mr. Nobbs or Mr. Harwood are notified.

Red Feather support of the Boy Scouts is limited largely to professional advice and assistance. The Waban Scouts conduct two paper drives each year to raise funds to maintain their cabins at Nobscoot Reservation, and for other Troop purposes. Outside of the dues paid by the Scouts themselves, the proceeds from the sale of waste paper is their only source of income.

POETS' CORNER

... can you hear the wind's answer as it whistles through the branches?

March wind, oh, March wind,
Why do you blow?
Are you bringing spring rain
Or a fall of snow?

Or will you blow the clouds away
To show a blue sky?
Whither are you going
As you rush by?

Are you searching for a crocus
In some sheltered spot?
There is a blue crocus
In my garden plot

March wind, oh March wind,
Have one last fling,
Soon we'll hear a robin
Then it will be spring!

A LITTLE BIT OF HEAVEN
(Inspired by visit to Harvard, Mass.)

Yes, Earth and Heaven do touch,
We see it often, along the earthly walk

Yes, step by step, a little bit of Heaven

We need to look above, just watch,
Before our very eyes, in the skies,
A little bit of Heaven

The Rainbow, see the circle over all
With blended colors bright,
This means, another bit of
Heaven
Now before our sight

Roses, pinks, and pansies, some one cares,
That we may see a little bit of
Heaven

Not now and then, but always,
we may
See a bit of Heaven, music in the air,
The tender voice from one who cares

Die to win? No! It's here,
There's no division line from
Earth to Heaven, it's here,
You to share,
This little bit of Heaven

Check Labels On Cleaning Fluids

Common used cleaning and painting materials include some materials of a flammable nature, and if the necessary precautions are not followed in their use, fire and life hazards of a serious nature may be introduced. Household floor cleaning liquids, liquid waxes, paints and lacquers, paint removers and liquid sandpaper are some of the substances in addition to liquids used for home dry cleaning or for the removal of spots from clothing which need to be used with close attention to the necessary safety precautions.

The containers in which all of these various liquids are bought from a store are usually marked, when the liquid is inflammable, with such words as "Flammable," or "Keep Away from Flame." These words, however, may be in small print and not noticed by the user, or in some cases there may be failure to understand what these warning words really mean.

When a container of liquid is marked "Flammable" or "Keep Away from Flame" it means that the liquid gives off flammable vapors at ordinary room temperature. Whenever a can or bottle of such a liquid is opened vapors begin to come out the opening and when the liquid is spread or rubbed over a surface as paint or as cleaning liquid the vapors come off much faster. These vapors usually cannot be seen but as they flow or float away from the surface they mix with the air and may form a mixture with air that will burn or explode when ignited by any spark or flame.

Paints and cleaning liquids which do not present a flammable vapor hazard can often be used in place of those which have this hazard. It is desirable to use the nonhazardous materials where possible to do so. Where flammable paints or cleaning liquids are used, the fundamental safety precautions are briefly as follows:

(1) Provide good ventilation to carry the vapors away as fast as they are given off.

(2) Keep all flames, sparks and hot surfaces well away from the work, do not smoke while handling any of these materials. Paints and other coating materials in use are made of a great variety of substances, but insofar as the fire hazard is concerned the important thing is the liquid substance used as the solvent, vehicle or thinner. Linseed oil, turpentine, and mineral spirits are used in ordinary paint. Some newer kinds of paints use mixtures of alcohols and other solvents. Paint removers usually contain some benzol and these present similar hazards to gasoline. Carbon tetrachloride is a good solvent and cleaning liquid for some uses. It has the advantage of being nonflammable, but its vapors have a toxic effect if breathed so it should be used only where there is good ventilation. Benzol vapors are also toxic and should be used with similar precautions. Rags containing paint or linseed oil or almost any vegetable, animal or fish oil are subject to spontaneous heating under certain conditions and may start fires by themselves. They should be placed where they can dry freely out of doors or be placed in a closed metal container until they are safely burned.

When in need of a paint remover or a cleaning fluid take the time to get only a safe product. Remember, lives can't be replaced and homes are hard to obtain, take time to be safe.

Burner Fires and Their Causes

There is no mystery as to the increased number of fires in oil burners; the cause is readily disclosed by even casual study. In brief it is due to conditions brought about by the lack of proper maintenance, which in turn has engendered by the lack of materials and scarcity and high cost of trained mechanics who know how to correctly service the burners. The serious aspect of this situation is not by any means solely the feature of property loss. The potential danger of greatest concern is safety to life.

Continued operation of the burner without cleaning and removing the deposit of carbon inevitably result in clogging of the burner orifice. When this happens the flame goes out, and if the automatic device designed to cut off the flow of oil in such an emergency fails to function properly, the built-up pressure back of the obstruction is frequently sufficient to clear it and permit the oil to flow again into the combustion chamber. With the combustion chamber still highly heated from its recent use, vaporization creates so much oil vapor that combustion is incomplete, much of the resulting black, sooty smoke backs up into the cellar and then rises to other portions of the house.

Such failure to clean also account for so-called delayed ignitions; the vapor creates a mixture not proper for combustion and ignition is so delayed that when it does occur it is accompanied by sufficient violence or pressure to blow off the furnace door and frequently discharges flame into the cellar. There have also been cases where under such conditions the vapor has spread through furnace openings into the cellar and accumulated in material quantity; when ignition occurred it was accompanied by pressure of explosive force suffi-

What Shall We Eat..

WITH SAUSAGES

With the right vegetable accompaniment, a platter of sausages can be an important meal. Check these favorite sausage treats to see how much the accompaniments add: sausages with sweet potatoes, sausages and a corn squash, sausages with cinnamon apples.

Here's another good sausage meal. By every test of menu-making, Tomato Cheese Creole is an ideal vegetable accompaniment with sausages. A casserole of this tomato-rice dish, with plenty of cheese flavoring, is the promise of hearty eating that looks so good on the table. The flavor is just the blend that balances any nippy sausage. It goes well with mild summer sausage or the more highly seasoned and richer sausages.

With a rice base, this casserole can be the energy dish. So skip the usual energy vegetable, and have plenty of color with buttered green beans and an interesting salad.

TOMATO CHEESE CREOLE
1 cup washed white rice
1½ cups sliced onions
½ cup diced green pepper
3 tablespoons butter
1½ teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3½ cups cooked tomatoes
1½ cups grated American cheese
1½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Cook rice in 2½ quarts boiling water with 1 tablespoon salt in tightly covered kettle about 15 to 20 minutes until tender. (Or use minute-cooking rice.) Drain; rinse in boiling water. Sauté onions and green pepper in butter over low heat until tender. Add seasonings and tomatoes; simmer 15 minutes. Stir in rice.

Apples, bananas, berries, citrus fruits; any and every fruit lends itself to these salads. If you're

Democrats Now Must Find a Candidate . . .

Whatever may be said for or against President Truman, the cold fact of the matter is that he would have had a better chance of winning election next fall than any other candidate the Democratic party can nominate for the Presidency.

Just before his historic announcement of last Saturday night, Mr. Truman's prestige was at a rather low ebb. That was evident from the defeat he suffered at the hands of Senator Kefauver in New Hampshire and from the poor showing he made in the Minnesota-in-vote.

But his political stock certainly wasn't any lower than it was four years ago, and he surged back in 1948 to winning a stunning and surprising election after a dogged, uphill battle.

Whether he could have done the same thing again next fall is something that will never be known, but even with the South against him he would have had a better chance of doing it than Stevenson, Kefauver, Russell, Kerr or even Barkley.

Now the Democratic politicians start coldly and shrewdly trying to figure what candidate or combination of candidates might have the best chance of winning next November, and their planning undoubtedly will be designed to bring the Solid South back into the fold.

Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois looms as the best Presidential bet at the moment, and it would not be too great a surprise if Georgia's Senator Russell was picked as his running mate.

The Democratic Presidential possibilities are Stevenson, Russell, Vice President Barkley, Kerr, Senator Kefauver and Governor Williams of Michigan.

You would be fairly safe in crossing Kefauver off your list at the start. Despite the thin veneer of glamour he acquired from his crime hearings last year, the Democratic leaders neither like him nor consider him able. He will pick up a few scattered votes, but he has incurred the enmity of the men around President Truman, and the Democratic convention isn't likely to nominate any one the President doesn't want. However, it's unlikely that Kefauver will make enough progress for Mr. Truman to have to blackmail him.

Barkley is probably too old, and Kerr is too wealthy. Senator Russell is extremely able, but he wouldn't run well enough in the North to win election. He's definitely Vice Presidential timber if Barkley steps out, and he is likely to have pretty nearly the solid support of the South at the Democratic convention.

Stevenson and Williams are both outstanding Governors, but Stevenson comes from the bigger State, and the important Illinois electoral vote will be an important factor when the assets of the various contenders are being weighed in smoke-filled rooms.

How would Stevenson fare against General Eisenhower or Senator Taft in Massachusetts?

That's a question on which few political experts would hazard an opinion at this time. But Eisenhower would be a heavy favorite to carry the State over Kefauver, Russell or Kerr, and Taft probably could defeat either Kefauver or Russell.

One result of Mr. Truman's pronouncement Saturday night is to start the political campaign into real action just seven months before the election. Hitherto, the Taft and Eisenhower forces have provided most of the excitement, with Kefauver making a momentary splash but with little likelihood of getting anywhere when he runs into the cold reality of hard-headed Democratic politicians who make no secret of the fact that they want no part of him.

Now you'll see the maneuvering start in a big way, with the prospective candidates, who were waiting to see what President Truman was going to do, all bidding for position.

A Newark court rejected a plea by Mrs. Anna Herkaler for alimony in connection with her separation suit after it developed that the original quarrel began when she served her husband a bowl of soup made from his pet pigeons.

A customer entered the Spencer Sporting Goods Store in Englewood, Colo., asked Manager E. E. Tyson to show him a pistol, examined it, fitted his own bullets into it and then murmured: "This is a stickup."

After an unsuccessful three-months' search through the French underworld, Paris police discovered Bad-Check Artist Claude Pavie hiding out in his girl friend's apartment in the police headquarters building.

Criider-

There was a time when Lancashire had a world monopoly on the manufacture of cotton textiles. There was a time when New England was the only place in America where cotton was manufactured. But in New England, as in Lancashire, textile factories continue to be the largest single employers despite the expanding competition from other areas and nations.

Lancashire attributes its woes to foreign competition. Our people tend to blame the South. But the most striking contrast, reflecting the different social-economic philosophies for the two regions, is that while the Lancashire folk, unions and mill owners alike turn with one voice toward the national government in London for a solution to their problems, we here in New England are resigned to the necessity of solving our own problems right here.

To be sure, there have been those, like some of the textile unions and politicians, who have sought additional contracts from Washington, but nobody here seriously believes that Washington can solve our problems. The doctrine of "let George do it" has not, fortunately, been wholly accepted by our New Englanders.

That is why it was so ridiculous for Harold Stassen, when vote-seeking in New Hampshire, to say quite seriously that if he was elected President he would see that the New England textile industry was protected. How intelligent voters must have asked, was Mr. Stassen going to do that? In view of the mood of Lancashire, a man so committed might make a good Labor Prime Minister of Britain, but hardly a President of the United States.

The Lancashire attitude of mind reflects a defeatist, protectionist mood into which I hope we never sink here.

There, they have called upon the national government for help and actually won the right to have their problems discussed on the floor of Parliament. What do they want? Protection from foreign competition and more government textile contracts. But the emphasis is on protection. They are frightened of German and Japanese competition and they would like their government to build a little wall around them so that they can survive, antiquated, non-competitive methods or not. No industry ever got very far with the umbrella of protectionism held over its head.

Political Angle

Of course, we don't like to contribute our federal taxes to the development of resources in other areas which are competitive with our own, but on the other hand, we can apply nationally the slogan which the New England Council applies to our own region, "a rising tide lifts all the boats." If that's true for units of business in New England, it's true for the country as a whole.

So one might question the value to New England of the kind of position which Representative John F. Kennedy recently took on the House floor with respect to the appropriation for the Tennessee Valley Authority. In voting for a $29,000,000 cut in that appropriation, he said:

"We in New England can't contribute all our taxes to bury ourselves."

Now this is as if to say that we are in such a bad way up here that all it takes to steal our industries away is a federal regional power installation like the TVA. Of course, the TVA was in business a long time before the serious exodus of New England textiles began. It seems to me that a competitive area has got to have a lot more than cheaper power to be really competitive with us.

But the larger side of this situation is that we are what might be called an exporting unit of the American nation. We bring in raw and semi-finished materials, add value to them with our well recognized skills, and export them to the rest of the land. We can only prosper so long as our market prospers. If the South is richer, and its people better off, standard of living wise, for TVA, then perhaps we shouldn't begrudge such help as our taxes have contributed to its development.

One Bad Enough

And what good does it do, anyway, for the regions of the United States to start provincial warfare of a kind Mr. Kennedy subscribed to? Are we going to be any better off as a nation if now, in retaliation, groups of southern and western Congressmen band together to see that provisions of the annual Rivers and Harbors Bill for New England be clipped from that legislation? It seems to me that we had one civil war that was bad enough. And, what's more, we have it in our power here to solve our own problems without Washington's intervention.

I recently had a long talk with the executives of Raytheon Corporation which has 16,000 employees now working in Massachusetts. They believe in New England, are going to stay here, even though they cannot help but be conscious of some of the extra costs they must pay in return for the easily accessible skilled labor upon which they depend.

They think that steps must be taken quickly to do something about correcting the competitive situation of Massachusetts in terms of cost of doing business. This applies equally to some other New England states. These men recognize that the high cost social legislation we have here—unemployment insurance, workmen's compensation costs, and so forth—is necessary and valuable by way of keeping our labor force happy, but where these costs are way out of line with competitive industrial states, they must be adjusted.

The feeling grows that this can be done if only the labor leaders will join with management in seeking corrective political action. And why shouldn't they? Do they hope to hold their union jobs on a platform of having been parties to legislation which closed factories and produced widespread unemployment in the region? It looks like this is something on which labor and management can get together.

A customer entered the Spencer Sporting Goods Store in Englewood, Colo., asked Manager E. E. Tyson to show him a pistol, examined it, fitted his own bullets into it and then murmured: "This is a stickup."

After an unsuccessful three-months' search through the French underworld, Paris police discovered Bad-Check Artist Claude Pavie hiding out in his girl friend's apartment in the police headquarters building.

SPOTLIGHT ON THE NEWTONS

By RALPH and TUNNI COOLIDGE

During this week, as you shop among the Newtons, you may notice prevalent laughter in your community, for this is National Laugh Week!

This is the time to check-up on your reaction to merry-making. As a preparation for summer holidays, loosen-up those facial muscles, un-cover that twinkle in your eyes, cultivate a pleasant-sounding laugh.

The great French philosopher, Henri Louis Bergson, expounded his theory of vitalism. He set forth the fact that man is set apart from animals in that laughter belongs to man alone.

So without developing superstitious complexes in the Newtons, this week our readers are urged to let Fido wait for his walk, while a bit of checking is done on the levels of laughter. A good time to watch the appearance of a laugh is when the ladies are donning make-up or daddy is shaving, before the mirror. Does that double chin shake and quiver from lack of laughter exercise? Do you need a little cream on the "crow's feet" at the corners of your eyes as they crinkle in laughter?

When you laugh, do you titter, guffaw, howl, snicker, or politely ha-ha while merely broadening a smile? In what category do you belong? Make a check on yours, and switch to another if it isn't becoming before a mirror, or is euphonically unpleasant.

Three Newton men will present reports at the Executive Committee meeting of the Boston University Hillel House Building Foundation to be held at the Kenmore Hotel, April 23, according to an announcement by Edward E. Cohen, president. Frank E. Shapiro and Joseph Kaplan, of Newton, will report on the financial program of the group. Myron Roberts of Newton, chairman of the building committee, will discuss progress on the building.

5. Mellow music—mother's relating junior's latest brilliant act. There's an air of superiority here; after all, Junior is her child.

6. Professor's apology—the joke isn't on an educational level; laughter fades into a guilty "humph-h."

7. Squeamish squeal—this breaks into a tiny scream that isn't meant to bring aid, but to show the situation is enjoyed. Mary's just been introduced to a pet mouse and she's standing on a chair. Of course he'll help her down.

8. Howl of horror—this is a little involved; it's a laugh, but with a semblance of horror; a hint that the little lady from whom the sounds emit, is really quite sheltered and needs protection.

9. Grocer's groan—a polite laugh as result of meat-buying customer's joke; ends with a raising of the eyes and low groan of "what I have to listen to" as he bends under the counter for a sheet of wrapping paper.

10. Dater's delight—this is between a howl and a titter; polite, yet hearty. Everything's funny, after all, the college doesn't have too many eligibles for the prom.

There are many more that aren't officially typed as yet, but whether or not you fit into any one of these classifications, the fact remains that laughter is important to your appearance and health. A smiling face is always an attractive one. A hearty laugh

The city has erected a new island in the center of the square and plans called for an all cement structure. Instead, due to the cooperation of Willard Pratt, director of Public Works, the island will be constructed with a five-foot concrete edging while in the center will be left a plot of dirt.

In the center, the Improvement Association and Business Men's Association have jointly agreed to finance a flower planting project in the hope that this garden will do something to beautify the corner district of the city.

Juniors of Temple Shalom to Be Hosts to Newton Ministers

Sunday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock the Juniors of Temple Shalom (JOTS) of Newton will act as hosts to ministers and representatives of four churches in Newton and Wellesley at a traditional Passover Seder. This is an outgrowth of many inquiries received during the past two years by Rabbi Irving A. Mandel about the relationship of Passover to the Easter holiday.

The JOTS, children of the 12 to 14 age level, are eager to have their guests join with them as they celebrate the traditional feast of Passover with its historical message of freedom and its ancient ceremonial observances. The entire program is under the direction of Rabbi Mandel, spiritual leader of Temple Shalom, and Mrs. Shlomo Marenof, director of religious education. Mrs. Maurice Bean, Mrs. Manuel Tishler and Mrs.

Sidney Morrison head the Sisterhood Planning Committee. Sheila Natol will act as hostess of the day and David Phillips will sing, "Let My People Go."

Invitations have been sent to the following ministers and the representatives of the junior high age group of their congregations: Rev. Edmund W. Nutting, Second Church of West Newton; Rev. ## League of Women Voters Now Conducting Fund Campaign

Next Wednesday morning, April 9, at the Community Playhouse, Wellesley, Miss Eunice Harriet Avery will give her last lecture in the highly successful 1951-52 season. It has been an unusually good series of lectures and many Newton residents who have recently heard Miss Avery speak in Connecticut on, "Three Chinas in the Making" report that it is one of the outstanding performances of her career.

This lecture on China is the promised "extra," one which the committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Clarence J. Hunter is presenting to the community in recognition of the fact that with this meeting Miss Avery completes her twentieth year in Wellesley.

The State League picture was presented by Mrs. John C. McClintock who stated that the Massachusetts League is the fastest growing in the country, having 39 accepted and 10 provisional Leagues. "With growth," Mrs. McClintock explained, "certain State services naturally increase, and during this election year extra services will be required. The strength of the League lies in its closely integrated program on the local, state and national levels of activity."

Mrs. Seymour S. Getter, Finance Chairman of the League of Women Voters of Newton, summarized for the large group of solicitors attending the meeting, the accomplishments of the Newton League during the past year within the community. These included the clarification of local controversial issues through letters to local newspapers, discussion units to develop citizen responsibility through study, open meetings and panel discussions for the benefit of Newton citizens, and Voter's Service. The Newton League Finance Campaign will continue through April 14th.

Day Junior High School Notes

Last Friday six boys from the Library Staff visited the Book Exhibit at the Division of Instruction. Each boy made up a list of books which he felt should be added to the collection in the Day Library. After the list is compiled, each boy will be credited with the selection of three books, and the book, after purchase, will carry on it the recommendation of the Council member. This same plan will be followed late in April when another group of Library Staff members will travel to Boston University with Mrs. Holmes, Staff advisor, to select books at an exhibit which will be featured there. The boys who made this trip were Philip Joslin, John Simcock, Richard Flynn, Glenn Shriberry, Fred Grady, and Billy Hough. The latter is vice president of the Library Staff.

The following students were selected by the Student Council to attend the meeting of all Junior High Councils at Weeks Junior High School on Wednesday, April 2: Barry Bloom, Ann Peppard, James Haney, Carol Lawson, Kenneth Knox, Marie Murphy, Jayne Crosby, John Griswold, and Conrad Morrissey.

Painted Lines on Highways Are Life-Lines for Motorists

"Painted lines on Massachusetts highways are life-lines for motorists and pedestrians!"

Chief of Police Philip Bureau of Newton Police Department and Registrar of Motor Vehicles, Rudolph F. King, in a joint statement made today, call public attention to the fact that maximum safety benefits from these white lines can be realized only when all highway users — motorists and pedestrians — understand their meanings and observe them.

The system of road markings used by the Department of Public Works under the direction of Commissioner William F. Callahan on state and community highways is in accord with established uniform standards," stated Chief Purcell, and the Registrar. "The white lines can easily be interpreted by any motorist and, if obeyed, will be of primary importance in reducing highway accident frequency in this Commonwealth."

Last year 5138 miles of white lines were painted on our state highways. These white lines have the following meaning:

BROKEN CENTER LINES: when used on two-lane highways, mark the center of the roadway. Motorists must drive to the right except when passing a vehicle going in the same direction.

SOLID BARRIER LINES: marks areas where passing is prohibited. When used in combination with a broken center line, it is directional. If the solid line is immediately adjacent to the driver in the right hand lane, it should NOT be crossed; if it appears to the left of the broken center line at the driver's left, it may be crossed at the driver's discretion.

DOUBLE SOLID BARRIER LINES: USUALLY found painted in the center of four-lane undivided highways. Use of this restrictive marking is predicated on the assumption that passing a car can be accomplished without crossing to the left of the center of the roadway.

DOUBLE SOLID BARRIER LINES WITH BROKEN LINES IN CENTER: usually found on two-lane highways. This combination of barrier and broken center line pavement marking serves the same purpose as an island. It is completely restrictive and means no passing at any time.

The Rev. Douglas B. MacCorde, of the Immanuel Church, gave an opening prayer and welcome. The Rev. W. C. Nelson, of the Glad Tidings Tabernacle, Everett, spoke on the work of the Canadian Gideons, and Mr. Washington asked the members to give Testaments where they are needed most, even among those who do not attend church.

The Gideon male quartet sang two selections, and all joined in singing gospel songs.

DIAGONAL BARRIER LINES: used on three-lane highways in advance of "No Passing" zones to regiment and prepare approaching motorists while entering the restricted areas.

TRANSITION BARRIER LINES: used at road width changes, from four to three-lane, and from three to two-lane, where opposing lines of traffic must give way to avoid head-on collisions.

TRANSVERSE BROKEN LINES: used to mark pedestrians' crosswalks. These serve a dual purpose of influencing pedestrians to cross highways at designated locations and to warn the motorists of crossing locations.

Every safety-conscious motorist should make it his business to know what highway markings mean," said Chief Purcell and Registrar King, "and the unceasing campaign to make Massachusetts highways safe will derive great support when everyone takes time to learn — and heed — the legends of these life-lines for motorists and pedestrians."

Roy O. Washburn of West Medford, International Gideon president, and James Randall of Cambridge, State International Trustee, were among the 100 that attended.

Home Nursing Course Put To Use By Newton Mothers

Mrs. Clemens Spang of 1143 Beacon street, Newton Centre, one of the first women in Newton to sign up for the Red Cross Home Nursing course recommended by Civil Defense, describes her reaction to the course.

"It was early in October, that one of my neighbors rang the bell of my home at 1143 Beacon street. 'Good morning, Mrs. Spang, a message for you from the Office of Civil Defense.'

"I had at that moment a little leisure, so rarely enjoyed in my busy household. My invalid mother was for the second, resting comfortably. My three small children were in, what mothers call, a cooperative mood! After posting the Air-raid signals where they could be studied and obeyed, I sat to read the other announcement. It was the letter for the Home Nursing course given by the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross. I had long heard Civil Defense calling for 'One Home Nurse in Every Home' — was this the way the Red Cross hoped to fulfill this need?

"For me the announcement held some personal help. Was it now that I would learn to better care for my bed-ridden mother? Could I learn to move her properly, for her illness had left her unable to bring about the change of position so necessary in her treatment. Would

I receive the confidence to administer her medicines and treatments — are there aids in caring for her skin, bathing and feeding, easing her loneliness?

"I was harassed and worried — any knowledge would be helpful. And so I signed up.

"It was early in November that I attended my first class — I, with 20 more women from all parts of Newton. We were greeted by our instructor, a pleasing person, and she made our first introductions easy and friendly. The instructor wore on her crisp white uniform the symbols of her training — the pin of the school from where she had graduated as a nurse, the Red Cross pin of enrollment, and her Red Cross instructor's pin — what better credentials could she have? The classroom was friendly too — the aqua blue walls, the white ruffled curtains, the conference table where we discussed problems and watched special demonstrations. The two hospital beds stood stiff, white, well-turned. I feel very proud that I can now make one, so professionally.

"My classmates were of assorted ages — from the young mother who was yet to deal with mumps or measles, to the older woman, a grandmother, and others like myself with family and sickness together.

"In the six, two-hour lessons

I learned all I ever hoped for, and much of the improvised equipment is now in use. I feel my mother is better for my taking the course and I know the relationship between me and the doctor has been strengthened by my nursing knowledge and confidence. It is good to know that by spring we will have in Newton 650 men and women trained as I am for the time when sickness strikes or disaster comes."

Waban

Gordon B. Gifford Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Gifford, 5 Winnetka Rd., Waban, was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Babson Institute of Business Administration, Babson Park, Mass. He majored in the study of Finance and Investments during his course at the college. Mr. Gifford entered Babson in the fall of 1948, following two years' service with the U.S. Navy in the Caribbean. His extracurricular activities have included being Senior Class Council Representative and participation in intramural sports. He is a graduate of Newton High School and attended the University of Miami in Miami, Florida.

Coach Howie Ferguson uncovered this year's crop of Newton High baseball candidates last week for the third outdoor workout, and began building his club around a nucleus of four last year starters. Up for positions this season are shortstop Don Flagg, second baseman John Freider, catcher Fred Dauten and outfielder Dave Bonnar.

Coach Ferguson has a squad of 28 men to work on, with the pitching department the most important problem. The Newton mentor has had his boys practicing in the Drill Shed for the past month, shaping up for its 16-game schedule this season. Newton opens the season against Medford High at Newton tomorrow afternoon.

Assistant Coach Bud Hawkes, second in command for the season, inspected the pitching prospects with Coach Ferguson. Out for mound duties were Marshall Sade, Denny Kunz, DeStefano, Vic Voner, Eddie Murphy, Don Dunbar, McGregor, Fiske and Bob Thompson.

Catchers are Gerry Flagg and Fred Dauten; first basemen, Don Forbes, Dick Schwartz, Dave Bonnar; shortstops, Don Flagg, Normie Gahm; second basemen, John Kreider, Fred Marcell; third basemen, Pete Righy, Curtis Tong, Dick DeMichele; outfielders, Bob Sheppard, Willard Hillman, Dick Allen, Bob O'Neill, Paul Robinson, Ron Lochiato and Joe Colletto.

Electing not to play ball were last year's starters, left fielder Dan Coffey, catcher Lee Carder and utilityman Don Thompson. Coffey and Thompson were both members of the Newton High hockey team, as was Vic Voner. Kreider and Dauten both played on the Newton basketball club.

Postponement of the Newton-Medford game tomorrow because of bad weather will move the opening game to this Monday. The Orange will play its second game against Quincey High at Newton the latter part of next week.

B. C. and Eagles Post Victories In City Finals

A group of enthusiastic boys between the ages of 12 and 14 have formed a Chess Club at the Weeks Jr. High School under the guidance of D. Leighton Ordway of the YMCA Chess Club. They have just finished a tournament in which the first place was shared by Carl Cannon of Newton Centre and Edmund Hanauer of Oak Hill, with a score of five wins and one loss each.

The playoff was won by Edmund Hanauer, who received a book on Chess Openings. The second place went to Thomas Gochberg of Newton Centre, with three and one-half wins to two and one-half losses, and the third place to Peter Hanauer, Ned's brother with three wins and three losses.

The boys look forward to a lot of fun and to a steady improvement in their game.

Temple-Aires Elect Officers for Season

At a recent meeting of the Temple-Aires, youth group of Temple Emanuel, Newton Centre, the following were elected officers for the coming year: Harold Ellison, president; Fred Bossman and Roberta Ellison, vice presidents; Richard Lesser, treasurer; Nancy Alperin, recording secretary; and Rhoda Kaplan, corresponding secretary.

Named to the Executive Board were: Harvey Bernstein, Evan Spelfogel, Harvey Steinmetz, Martin Stepper, Elaine Furman, Barbara Davidson, David Albertson, David White, Sydney Solomont, Bette Ann Spelfogel, Donald Miller, Stanley Rosenberg, Barbara Lamkin and Barbara Nussinow.

The B. C. Club fell behind in the scoring in the first quarter when the All-Stars jumped off to a slight lead. But the collegians, winners of the senior loop for the last three years, climbed into the fore with Bob Cote and John Toppa leading way, posting an 18-9 bulge at the end of the opening period.

Generally, the B. C. Club held a good margin during the game, except in the second period when the All-Stars registered 18 points to the victor's 15.

The West Newton Eagles had a tougher time posting the victory in the National Division game. Immaculate carried the fray to a 33-33 deadlock late in the fourth period before the Eagles' Bob Dowling broke the tie with a basket. After that the West Newton club kept the edge to gain the title.

Championship trophies were awarded to five teams that won Newton Basketball League titles. Alderman Leo Cannon, representing Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood, presented trophies to the B. C. Club, West Newton Eagles, Mary Immaculate, Hawthorn Jets and Corpus Christi. Miniature gold basketballs were awarded to members of the five championship teams and also to the finalists in the American, National B and National A Division playoffs. Gath's, the Blue Royals and Dennington House.

They are to be sent to the National Junior Red Cross in Washington, D. C. for the International Art Program. This program now in its fourth year is sponsored jointly by the American Junior Red Cross and the American Art Association, and is an activity whereby American youth sends drawings and paintings describing their lives and their interests to youth of other lands. Children in a number of countries are sending in return drawings and paintings that interpret their lives and interests.

The purpose of the program is to arouse in the young people of the world a friendly understanding of one another and to encourage students to see the possibilities of their own lives and experiences as a basis for expression through drawing and painting.

American students have sent their art work to twenty-three countries, while art work has been received from Austria, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Japan, Sweden, Venezuela, and Yugoslavia.

David J. Mintz, 2 Whitney Rd., a certified public accountant and a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Business School, has announced his candidacy for State Auditor. Mintz is the first CPA to seek the office.

Easter Parade Began in Rome, Named for Spring Goddess

Maybe you've been wondering how the Easter Bunny can lay gaily colored eggs in a nest—as birds do.

Chances are that you didn't know the traditional Easter Parade began in Rome—over 1600 years ago.

And (be truthful now!) how do you account for the fact that Easter Sunday is April 13 this year—when it was observed on March 23 in 1951?

Probably you're as puzzled as youngsters everywhere, about why we do the things we do at Easter time. But in one form or another, our modern Easter customs have been practiced for centuries. Even the sending of warm-hearted greetings on Easter cards, which originally were hand-lettered on Easter eggs colored with herbs.

Easter itself was named after Eostre, the Anglo-Saxon goddess of spring, who was especially fond of children. To delight and gain their friendship more easily, legends declare she long ago transformed beautiful peat bird into Mr. Hippety Hop—our fun loving Easter Bunny!

All of us, of course, like to step out in new clothes at Easter. It's a custom that springs from the universal desire to "spruce up" at a time when all nature is blooming with new life.

Historically, however, the modern Easter Parade began early in the 4th century A.D., when Roman Emperor Constantine decreed his entire court must wear their finest new robes to honor the Feast of Christ's Resurrection. In recent years, it seems, the adventurous Huck Finn has been the only boy to successfully rebel against this imperial edict.

Constantine's next step, as the first ruler to accept Christianity, was to summon the Council of Nicaea in 325. There it was decided Easter should always fall on the Sunday following the first full moon after March 21, the first day of Spring. This formula, adopted by the Church, explains why Easter may arrive anywhere from March 22 to April 25.

With each passing century, Easter customs have changed remarkably. Some have disappeared completely. While others—especially those for children—are still widely enjoyed each year.

Medieval churches in many European countries, for example, enlivened their services with an "egg-throwing" ritual. Choral groups sang their hymns on Easter Sunday, while tossing colored eggs back and forth. In one country, Poland, children floated painted eggshells down rivers, to carry Easter greetings to mythical races living underground.

Easter in 15th century England was celebrated by young and old alike in a lighthearted, almost boisterous, manner. Free shaves were offered in the churchyard by village barbers to those attending Easter services. Villages sunk a ceremonial shield in the Thames River. And then attempted to break lanes against it while standing afloat in oarless boats—to prove their athletic prowess.

Young English swains carried plush, beribboned chairs around to win kisses from each girl they could hoist overhead three times. As for small-fry, the boys boldly darted about on Easter Sunday stealing buckles off the shoes of their feminine playmates, who retaliated by snatching the boys' caps. Afterwards, it was customary to redeem the captured items with candy or toys.

Dutch boys and girls dance in the market place on Easter Eve, then march through the streets with lighted Chinese lanterns bobbing on sticks. House-to-house song fests are held during Easter week by the young people of Wales. Grown-ups reward their entertainment with "coppers of commutation" and sweets.

Here in America, one of our most popular Easter customs—dyeing hardboiled eggs—has been traced back to early Dutch settlers in New York and Pennsylvania. Actually, it began when early Christians, hiding from persecution in the catacombs of Rome, stained their Easter eggs a deep red to symbolize the blood of Christ.

Throughout the Christian era painted eggs have been frequently used to denote the Resurrection. Colored eggs inscribed with good wishes were the traditional Easter greetings of Europe for many centuries. But they proved impractical to send long distances.

Hospital To Obtain The "Atomic Radium" For Treatment of Cancer; Atom Bomb By-Product

Equal, If Not Greater Than Radi'm-Xray

Special Equipment To Handle Radio - Active Cobalt Is Donated

At a special meeting of the medical staff of the Newton Wellesley Hospital called to celebrate the third anniversary of the opening of the State-approved Hospital Tumor Clinic for the diagnosis and treatment of Cancer, Dr. T. Stewart Hamilton, Administrator of the Hospital, announced that a supply of one of the newest weapons developed by Cancer research, radio-active cobalt or so-called "atomic radium," was being obtained for use in treating cancer at the hospital.

This latest form of cancer treatment is one of the important peacetime by-products of the atom bomb research and is obtained by exposing metallic cobalt to the rays of the atomic pile thereby transferring to this otherwise inert metal radioactive power which has a curative effect on cancer equal if not greater than the effects of radium or x-ray. One important feature of this radio-active product is that it can be obtained in quantity and is therefore much less expensive and more readily available than natural radium.

Special equipment necessary to handle radio-active cobalt has been donated to the Hospital by an anonymous giver who is greatly interested in furthering the program of cancer diagnosis, and treatment in the Newton-Wellesley area.

Dr. Hamilton also announced that Russell F. Cowing, Ph.D., Nuclear Physicist associated with Dr. Shields Warren at the New England Deaconess Hospital had been appointed to the Staff of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital to supervise the use of radio-active cobalt in accordance with regulations of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dr. Herbert G. Dunphy of Newton Highlands, Chairman of the Tumor Clinic Committee, reviewed the history of the Clinic, pointing out that although there had been a Tumor or Cancer Clinic in existence at the hospital for many years, the new state-approved Tumor Clinic which was organized in 1949 was set up on an entirely new pattern with the approval of the Hospital Trustees following the plan recommended by the American College of Surgeons and the American Cancer Society. The administration of this clinic was put under the supervision of a Tumor Clinic Committee composed of Dr. Charles A. Lamb, Dr. Lewis S. Pilcher and Dr. Herbert G. Dunphy, a physician, Consultants in all important specialties were

Local Groups Aid Program

Reflectorized Tape to Be Supplied Cyclists Above The Fourth Grade

Chief Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department announced the start of the Spring Safety Campaign which is to include a Scotchlite-a-Bike Program.

The Scotchlite-a-Bike Program, which is being sponsored by the Jenny Manufacturing Company and local outlets, will supply Scotchlite reflectorized tape for all cyclists from the fourth grade up.

The Scotchlite will be put on bicycles by men from Newton's service clubs including Jr. Chamber of Commerce, Elks, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lion, Post 48, Post 440 and other groups.

The purpose is to add a measure of safety for Newton's cyclists after dark.

Announcement of location and time, which will differ from school to school, will be made in the schools throughout the city.

School children will be given identification blanks at school and directed to the nearest station to keep to a minimum the movement of bicycles, and motorists should exercise greater caution.

In the interest of greater safety the program will be carried over six weeks and key stations from different sections will be featured each week.

Chief Purcell also stated that complete bicycle safety cannot be achieved until the following are observed:

THE CHILD

1. Must obey all traffic officers, school crossing guards, school safety patrols, and all traffic signs and signals.

2. Must stop at the curb, look both ways and for turning traffic, before venturing into the street.

3. Must cross the street only at legal crossings and when way is clear.

4. Must play in a safe place, away from traffic.

Appeal Filed in Supreme Judicial Court on Recent Decision in License Case

Attorney Paul S. Rich, acting for Kenneth E. Merrill, Jr., and Joseph A. Hickey of Newton, filed an appeal Tuesday with the Supreme Judicial Court of the recent decision of Judge Francis J. Good who found in favor of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission in suit brought by two disabled veterans who sought to have their application for an all-liquor package store granted them by the Newton Licensing Board restored. This appeal to the Supreme Judicial Court keeps the original injunction in effect until the matter is reviewed by the judicial court.

Attorney Rich, who had also acted for ten residents of the Newton Corner section in a suit brought to prevent any additional liquor stores at Newton Corner, argued a demurrer before Judge Hanify. After the hearing, Judge Hanify took the matter under advisement.

In this case, said Judge Hanify overruled the license for a liquor store at Newton Corner granted by the ABC, a court trial on the whole issue will probably be held within the next three weeks.

Garden Tour to Be Held Here Next Month

Annual Event Is Enjoyed By Thousands Who Visit Gardens Open to Public

The Newton Tribune Foundation today announced its plans for the 1952 season, according to its president, Mrs. John F. Brown of Auburndale. "Our goal for '52," said Mrs. Brown, "is to equal the efforts of 1951 and 1950 combined. With the help of local merchants and commercial associations so generously given in the past, and the sustained interest of the citizens of Newton, we shall certainly accomplish this."

Already a new planting is underway at Washington street and Commonwealth Avenue.

The Newton Tribune Foundation was organized six years ago for the purpose of creating "living memorials" in honor of Newton citizens now serving and having served in the Armed Forces. By the plantings of public sites, rather than the erection of man-made monuments, a growing tribute serves not only to honor those so worthy of that honor but also to beautify the city of Newton.

The annual "Tour of Gardens" offering to the public the opportunity of visiting some of the outstanding horticultural efforts by prominent Newtonians will take place on May 10, 11, 12.

The following presidents of the Newton Garden Clubs are working toward this pleasant occasion with the advance sale of tickets for $1 during April:

Auburndale, Mrs. Franklin K. Hoyt; Newton Centre, Mrs. Edward Leonard; Newtonville, Mrs. Roger Wheeler; Newton Highlands, Mrs. Lincoln Alvord; West Newton, Mrs. John Eaton; West Newton Educational, Mrs. Edwin Wolley; Newton Upper Falls, Mrs. Nicholas Tocci; and Chestnut Hill, Mrs. Charles Hovey.

During the war he headed the war bond sale for the U.S. Treasury. Before coming to Newton, he was superintendent of schools in St. Louis Mo.

Dr. Anderson is now a Harvard lecturer and education consultant.

More than 3,000 school officials attending the four-day regional conference were present at the meeting in Mechanics Building Sunday night.

Attorney Rich, who had also acted for ten residents of the

Newton Corner section in a suit

Dr. Dunphy concluded the meeting by reminding the staff that this is National Cancer Control Month devoted to raising funds for furthering the various programs of cancer education, research and service sponsored by the American Cancer Society and urged all local physicians to support vigorously the current Cancer Society's drive, the "Cancer Crusade of '52" which will continue through April.

5. Must cooperate fully with police and school officials in enforcing safety rules for the child.
6. Must make sure their child has the necessary skill and maturity before allowing unsupervised use of a bicycle or motor scooter and that it is safely maintained.

THE MOTORIST—

Harold M. David Lewis, one of last year's winners, has done another project on radioactivity.

A stage show will be featured each afternoon and Thursday evening, and there will be a continuous showing of Science Movies.

All of the parents and friends of Newton High School are most cordially invited to come and view the efforts of the young scientists of America. Admission is free.

Camp Fire Girls To Hold Candy Sale Beginning This Saturday*Nonantum Council Holds Meeting*Beautiful Gardens of City To Be Open to Public May 10, 11, 12

The Nonantum Improvement Council held a meeting Tuesday evening, April 1st, at the Boys Club, 98 Dalby street, Newton.

Mr. Fred Pagnato, representing the Nonantum Post American Legion, informed the group that considerable progress has been made on the Adams Street Extension and that an aldermanic hearing will soon be held.

The Nonantum Improvement Council is doubling its efforts to bring about the purchase by the City of Newton of the Memorial Park site on Watertown street, between Bridge and Adams streets, for the new Nonantum Branch Library. Nonantum is now the only village which has no library development or improvement in many years. Library statistics show a disturbing decline in book circulation, inconsistent with increasing circulation in other Newton communities.

The Council stands united in its choice of site and has the announced support of the Newton Board of Library Trustees. It is felt strongly by all those interested in the welfare of Nonantum that an attractive library building in a park setting will do much to improve the entire village.

Ten local member organizations were represented at this meeting. A nominating committee was appointed, and new officers will be elected at the annual meeting in May.

Miss Cynthia Clair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles N. Clair of 17 Dorset road, Waban, is enjoying spring recess from her studies at Bouve-Boston School, which is affiliated with Tufts College, Medford.

Per square inch, there is more space packed into a submarine than any other warship.

The Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds of Newton Center are having a candy sale beginning Saturday, the day before Easter, and continuing into next week. The profits from the sale are to be split three ways:—to supplement the budget of the Greater Boston Camp Fire Council for more field service; to pay the expenses of a Newton Centre leader to attend the National Conference in New York City in May; and to add to the treasures of the local groups.

At a recent luncheon, the girls introduced the candy sale plan to their mothers by acting out their interpretations of a song about Yankee Doodle who comes to town with his friends and their moms and pops (see cut) to buy the Camp Fire Candy.

Mrs. Rodney Blake is Chairman of the candy sale committee. Others on the committee are Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Benjamin Loet, Mrs. O. D. McClelland, Miss Norma Perkins, Mrs. Charles Renker, Mrs. Jacob Rosemark and Mrs. Malcolm Stanley.

The music will be provided by Herbert Irvine, organist, and the choir soloists, Marjorie Horton Schumacher, Eunice Luckuck Corfman, Joseph Lamparelli, and Charles Pearson.

The religious dance is an ancient art form that was discontinued at the time of the Reformation. Left to the secular world, the dance was no longer used to express the deepest and noblest of man's feelings. Today the art of the religious dance is being developed once more, and, through this avenue of expression, spirits are being lifted and faith enriched.

The members of the Rhythmic Choir are as follows: Nancy Bell, Betsey Cleveland, Sheila Hardy, Marjorie Myers, Anita Carr, Carol Douglas, Dolores Fornos, and Barbara Hayes.

Maybe A Little Old Fashioned

Commuters are inconvenienced, shoppers are handicapped, and business men suffer while the bus strike, up to now at least, goes merrily on.

And for all this there has not been apparently any word of protest by any city official or group of officials.

True, it is very doubtful if any protest or condemnation of the strike could or would, prove effective, yet certainly the parties involved would become cognizant of the fact that the public is not accepting the strike in the same tenor of voice as apparently are those who are in dispute.

Perhaps it is the tendency of the times that no official or unofficial indignation meetings have been held. Perhaps, like other things, the public as well as officials, just don't want to be bothered. Certainly today the thought of the public in many matters irks no end those who are old enough to remember the mental attitude which existed 30 years or more ago. Then the public had consideration. Then management and labor would have thought twice about inconveniencing the public.

That attitude, however, appears to be a matter for the archives of the past to record. And yet we often wonder if this complacency on the part of the public is the very reason that we see so much corruption, so much indifference, so much lawlessness and so much disregard for the rights of others.

Regardless of the times, a little of that old-fashioned indignation and fearlessness, would go very well in these days if it were practiced. America would benefit if a little of that spirit existed today.

Current Comment

Lodge-Kennedy Contest to Be Real Battle...

Predict Nomination of Hertler and Whittier..

Congressman John F. Kennedy will be cast in a new role in next fall's campaign. He will be the political David challenging a vote-getting Goliath.

In one sense he'll be in somewhat the same position as Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., when the latter announced six years ago that he would challenge the late David I. Walsh.

The trend which was to sweep Lodge into office and Walsh into retirement didn't become evident until much later in the year, and Lodge was an underdog as he began his campaign.

It's extremely probable, however, that Lodge will remain the favorite right down to the election night wire and Kennedy the formidable but underdog challenger.

Where Walsh was old and in the twilight of his career, possessing only the faded remnants of his once vaunted strength, Lodge today is at the height of his political power, one of the most skillful and astute politicians in the country, the national campaign manager of the man most likely to win the Republican nomination for President.

Kennedy has been an excellent congressman. He has a sound record. He has given good service to the people of his district. He has worked hard. He has demonstrated real ability. His honesty and integrity are beyond challenge. He has an exceptional grasp of international problems. There isn't much question but that he would make an outstanding Senator, but he's challenging the best vote-getter the Republican party has in Massachusetts and its cleverest politician.

One factor in the Lodge-Kennedy fight about which political observers are uncertain is whether the Senator's all-out drive for General Eisenhower may cost him the support of the Taft elements when he needs it next fall.

Lodge's lieutenants don't believe it will. They think the Taft forces will be striving to present a united party front if their man wins the nomination and that a victory for Eisenhower would give added momentum to the Republican campaign in Massachusetts and place Lodge in a strategically advantageous position.

It may work out that way, but Basil Brewer, Taft's campaign manager in the Bay State, has publicly charged that Lodge broke his word in mixing into the Presidential primary and has published an exchange of correspondence to support that contention.

Much may depend on the trend of the fight for the G.O.P. Presidential nomination between now and the Republican national convention early next July.

If it proves to be a close, tight race, requiring several ballots before it is settled, with the usual political trading and jockeying, in which Lodge as Eisenhower's campaign manager would be the central figure, it is very likely to leave resentment which won't be dissipated before the November campaign.

Former Governor Bradford engaged in a knock-down fight on behalf of Governor Dewey at the 1948 Republican convention. He felt that Dewey was the strongest of the candidates who had any real chance of winning nomination. He sensed that Dewey was going to carry the convention, whether he had the support of the Massachusetts delegation or not, and he tried to get the Bay State contingent on the winning bandwagon.

It might be going a bit far to say that cost Bradford his chances of reelection in view of the trend that later developed in Massachusetts, but it hurt him badly, and he was unable to rally a united party behind him for his own fight, despite the fact that he had picked the winning candidate and that his judgment was proved correct.

Lodge is a much more skilled and polished politician than the forthright Bradford, and he may be able to avoid the pitfalls into which Bradford walked. But he also may find that resentment stirred up against him doesn't ebb away very quickly. And Kennedy is by no means likely to prove an easy opponent.

The likeable Congressman, who will be conducting his first State-wide campaign, has made a good impression upon listeners wherever he has gone. His reports on his observations of conditions in other parts of the world and the ideas that have stemmed from them have made quite an impact upon his audiences.

While he'll be an underdog in this campaign, the former PT-boat skipper, who once was reported missing in action in the Pacific and was believed dead, is certain to prove a pretty attractive candidate in his own right.

Hertler Apparently Assured of Nomination

About the only thing that could prevent Congressman Christian A. Hertler from winning the Republican nomination for Governor would be a surge of sentiment for Senator Taft in this month's Massachusetts Presidential primary, but Hertler is insisting on a hands-off policy on the selection of the other candidates who will make up the G.O.P. State ticket.

The plan for blocking out the pattern of the State ticket prior to the June convention has been pretty well discarded, and the delegates to the unofficial G.O.P. assembly will be given a free choice in the nomination of candidates.

This means that State Senator Sumner G. Whittier of Everett probably will be the Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor for Whittier could be prevented from achieving that nomination only if the top party leaders insisted on the selection of someone else.

It means also that Middlesex County District Attorney George E. Thompson may have the edge in the contest for the G.O.P. nomination for Attorney General.

Both Thompson and Whittier have the strength in their own right to carry an unbossed convention, and the present indication is that that is what the Republicans will hold. Hertler doesn't want the top party leaders to interfere even on his behalf. He's prepared to take his chances of getting the nomination strictly on his own, and if he can't get it that way he doesn't want it.

It is a fact that some of the party chiefs persuaded Hertler to step into the gubernatorial field, but he won't allow them to attempt to dictate his nomination, and, of course, it probably isn't necessary anyway.

A court in Mondovi, Italy, ruled that Andrea Vicino had a perfect right to keep his 55-year-old wife chained in her bedroom at night to prevent her from going out.

Mrs. Louise Geers, who was told to leave a St. Louis bus after a driver declined to change her $5 bill, brought suit against the bus company and was awarded $1500 in damages. The court held that $5 no longer is a bill of large denomination "in the light of changed economic conditions."

SPOTLIGHT ON THE NEWTONS

By RALPH and TUNNI COOLIDGE

There are three sizes of poodles—toys, miniature and standard. Colors are black, silver, white, apricot and cocoa. Five different trims are usually given the poodle.

The Royal Dutch: Represents Dutchman's blowzy pants, has pom pom on head, with or without whiskers, full ear or tassel.

Modified Royal Dutch: Identical, except trimmed on lower legs.

Sporting trim: Face, feet and tail are shaved.

Show trim with Continental Saddle or Lion's trim: This is only trim allowed in Show Ring; takes one year to grow hair in for this type. Face, feet, tail are shaved. Dog is not shaved from rib line up; from rib line back is shaved closely. Bracelets at locks and pom-pom complete trim.

Fancy trimming started, not as a fashionable measure, but a practical one.

About 300 years ago, poodles were considered great water retrievers. They were trimmed from shoulder to tail base, so the dog would not be weighted in water. The pom-pom was left on the tail in order that the dog may be seen through the reeds. Bracelets on legs acted as rudders and also protected hocks from being cut on rocks.

What happens to your dog when it is brought to the groomer? He is first chained in a stall, a few inches from the floor to protect dog from chills. This allows him to get used to surroundings; chain assures a non-fight period of waiting.

Miss McAleney checks dog's behavior and lifts its upper lip to see if it is enemic. Sick dogs are immediately recommended to local veterinarians. Dogs must have distemper shots before being brought to groomer.

Up goes Bowser, Fido (or a more fancy name, if you will) upon a table, where he is chained for the first steps of grooming. Miss "Mack" speaks in a low, purring tone as she eases the dog into the chain and prepares her implements for the trimming.

The dog is then brushed, combed and trimmed. Then, into a huge bath tub for a brisk bath!

During this coming season, with fleas, lice, knits and ticks in the offing, Miss McAleney will relieve many dogs of these irritations with one bathing. Even dogs that have been sprayed by skunks can go home after her bath treatment. Vinegar, black coffee, or her own discovery, tomato juice, is applied for this ticklish treatment.

After the bath, the dog is thoroughly dried, brushed and combed. A manicure (if you please), completes the beauty treatment. Low music is played as the now dandy dog snores away the afternoon. "Some afternoons this Shoppe sounds like a buzz-saw factory and looks like a nursery," laughs "Mack." She tells us dogs enjoy music.

It's late in the afternoon, and after receiving its reward of a special dog biscuit, the dog is ready to depart for home. Miss McAleney never feeds the dogs during the day as they may get excited and upset.

The Newton Kennel Shoppe carries Morroco leather collars and leads, also inexpensive brushes, combs and essential imported and domestic items to make a dog beautiful and comfortable. She even has studded "cocktail collars" and satin mattresses with foam-rubber inside; matching dog booties and plaid raincoats.

The shelves of the Kennel Shoppe are laden with toys and delightful things to eat for your dog.

Does it all sound inviting? Even neighborhood dogs sit outside Dorothea's door and scratch to get in. Dogs are usually brought in for grooming early in the morning and called for in late afternoon.

After leaving an affectionate "thank you" lick on the cheek of Miss Dorothea McAleney, and barking at the admiration of their masters, the beautifully groomed dogs reluctantly leave the Newton Kennel Shoppe.

Officers Rich and Veduccio investigated report of Jefferson street man that a car was being pushed into an alley by six or seven boys about 17 years of age. Boys could not be located. Act thought to be a prank.

Newton Meets Rindge Here Tuesday In Opening League Game

Newton high's baseball nine will participate in its first League game next Tuesday afternoon when it will play host to Rindge from neighboring Cambridge.

At the same time, Waltham will meet Watertown, and Brookline will meet Cambridge in the other Suburban League games scheduled for the opening day.

Coach Ferguson stated that the lineup which faced Medford last week will remain practically intact for the Rindge game with the possible exception of Bonner who hurt his finger in this game. Coach Ferguson, however, has high hopes that Bonner will be able to resume his place at first base when the game starts.

The loss to Medford last week all came about in one inning and other than that inning, Newton proved that it will be a factor in the Suburban League race this year and hopes to finish on top.

Newton has potential strength in most of the positions and real class in several spots, such as catcher Fred Dauten, Pete Rigby at third, and Don Flagg at short.

During the League season, Newton will play three home games this month and will be away from home only once. In May, the local nine will play three games at home but will engage in five games on foreign soil.

All in all, it looks like a busy season of the Orange and Black and they should do well. In addition to the League games, the Newtonites, in addition to the Medford game played last week, were scheduled to meet Quincy here yesterday (Wednesday) and will travel to Brockton April 18. Thayer Academy nine will be here for a game May 16 and this completes the 16 game schedule for the season.

Asks Governor's Aid to Save Hockey

Newton, along with other high schools, is faced with the prospect of little or no indoor hockey next winter, because the Boston Arena may not have an ice-making plant.

As a result, a committee of schoolboy league officials was formed Monday to seek Gov. Paul Dever's aid in saving the sport.

The committee plans to inform the Governor that unless the State sells the Garden-Arena Corporation the ice-making plant it recently took over by right of eminent domain, to make way for a new highway, school hockey will go out of existence.

The new highway will cut behind the Registry building, right where the ice-making plant which supplies the Garden, now stands. If the facilities cannot be purchased by the Garden for a reasonable sum, then the Arena ice-making machinery will be moved to the Garden.

The committee says the ice-making plant is of no use to anyone but the Garden. The plant is now owned by the Mass. Public Works Department.

Walter Brown, president of the Garden-Arena Corporation pointed out that college hockey would be cut next winter, and it was entirely possible that in addition to no practice sessions whatever, school hockey would be played only the afternoons when college hockey was scheduled at night.

He said he could not give the league any assurance of dates for next winter, not even dates for the State Tournament.

The awards were made on the basis of outstanding athletic ability and good sportsmanship. Each of the four will be mailed certificates shortly.

Five regulars of the 1951 baseball team were among the thirty-one candidates who reported to coach Jim Sullivan of Our Lady's High baseball team last week.

It is expected that Coach Sullivan will use these five regulars of last year as a nucleus for the 1952 team. The veterans reporting were Jim Murphy, Bill lawn, Stan Oldfield, Bill Bertrand and Jackie Glynn.

Murphy is expected to be the ace chucker this year and lawn looms as the first team receiver. Glynn appears to be all set again for third base while Bertrand and Oldfield should experience little difficulty in securing out-field berths again.

There is a possibility that Sullivan will place Oldfield at first base and also on the mound occasionally. Bertrand has also done some pitching and it is likely he will be called on again for mound duty this year.

With a total of ten men from last year's squad on hand, Our Lady's team this year has high hopes of bettering its 5-11 record of last year.

One Big 5 Run Inning in Opening Game Gives Medford Win Over Newton

Taking advantage of misplays by Newton, coupled with timely hits, gave Medford High five runs in the third inning of the opening game of the schoolboy baseball season here last Friday afternoon. About 300 attended the game which ended with Medford on top 8 to 3.

Although both teams made eight hits, the Mustangs took advantage of theirs and also displayed a firmer defense.

The final score does not indicate the effectiveness of the three Newton hurlers Mac Fiske, Art DeStefano and Marshall Sade as they pitched very good ball.

As might be expected in an early season game, the errors were plentiful with Medford making three and Newton six. Hardy mid-season form.

The whole game practically revolved around the third frame when Medford pushed across five runs, the margin of victory. Medford's catcher Angie Scalisi opened this chapter with a high hoist which rightfielder Bob Petreshene was caught trying to score on Delfino's grounder but Brophy walked and Fran Wall beat out a bunt to Bernard, again loading the bases. Gillis then scored the fifth run with a bunt on which Fiske had to throw to first. Scalisi, up for the second time in the inning, then bounded out to Fiske to Bonnar, ending the inning. But the damage had been done.

Newton Art Association Holds Demonstration

The Newton Art Association held its second annual "Artists at Work" night in the auditorium of the Newton Centre Women's Club last Thursday evening. An estimated 450 persons interested in painting techniques saw 25 members of the Association complete a picture from start to finish in two hours. The demonstrations were witnessed by many students, several artists, well known as teachers and painters, members of other Art associations, and many others who regarded it as wholesome entertainment.

Among the ones painted in oil was a woodsy landscape by H. Storey Granger, a delightful winter scene by Paula Newman, and a marine by Stephen Rowan. There were some excellent portraits by Miss Ruth Fonseca, in oil; Martha Pate, in opaque water color; Mrs. Ruth Palmer, in pastel; and one by Helen Hegnauer. Posing to these artists was Mrs. Francis Fonseca, Mother of Ruth, and a member of the Newton Centre Women's Club, the host for the evening. Mrs. Sophia Coty portrayed her daughter in a lovely water color.

Flowers were done by Marion Miller with a beautiful pastel painting of gladioli, also Sophia Merrill and Grace Stone in water colors, and by Priscilla Ordway, a caseine painting of Jonquils.

Marine subjects received careful attention at the hands of Dr. Carlton Whitney, an opaque water color of Gloucester boats, a sailing sloop by Dean Waite in caseine, a large turbulent surf scene by Roy Randall in water color, and Cape Cod boats by Jo Barker White, also in water color. Thomas Eaton painted a landscape in water color, and Fred Thompson used the tempera method in his landscape. Still life studies were made by Gretchen Cook and Etta Ramsdell using water color, and one by Marietta McCarthy who employed the palette knife method in oil.

Elizabeth DeVico capably portrayed Gloucester boats in pen and ink, while Amy Jarvis produced an interesting water color on news print.

On display and attractively arranged by Fred Thompson, was an exhibition of 25 of the recent paintings by the artists who were performing, and who were attired as they would paint in the studio or out-of-doors. A very noticeable feature was the genuine pleasure that the artists seemed to derive from their work, as they appeared to respond to the intense interest and sympathetic attitude of the onlookers.

Program arrangements were in the capable hands of Miss Helen Cleaves and Miss Margaret Stone. The hostess committee, Elma Lind Goodwin, chairman, included Mrs. Alice Weed, Miss Eleanor Gibbs, Mrs. Marion Cirella, and others. At the piano during the evening was Miss Susan Stone, daughter of Mrs. Grace Stone. The necessary special lighting was arranged by Lawrence Cirella. All placement cards, placards, and the colorful outdoor display sign were designed by Eugene Faucher, a member of the club and proprietor of the Newton Sign Shop.

The Newton Art Association was formed three years ago with a nucleus of 15 members who chose Mr. James K. Bonnar as its first president. There were 55 members in the second year, and there are now 100 active members and an associate membership of 45, some of whom will become active members as vacancies occur. Mr. Sherwood Blodgett is completing his second term as president, and the group meets twice a month, except in the summer, at the Newtonville Library. The meetings are diversified, and include painting demonstrations, art criticism, lectures, exhibitions of paintings, outdoor trips, and the annual dinner in May.

The next regular meeting of the Newton Art Association will be on Thursday evening, April 17th when Marion Williams Steele will demonstrate by painting in oil.

Temple Shalom Conducts Model Passover Seder

"Freedom," the universal desire of both Jews and Christians was the keynote of the model Seder conducted by Rabbi Irving A. Mandel of Temple Shalom of Newton for the Junior high children of the Temple and their guests from Newton and Wellesley churches last Sunday afternoon.

In the Passover story," Rabbi Mandel pointed out, "Jews are reminded that history has a divine purpose, and that every age must look backwards for confirmation of hope and forwards for faith that Tyranny is but a temporal thing while Freedom is man's recruiting privilege to sustain his human dignity under the Fatherhood of God."

Possibly for the first time in Newton, children from various

Christian denominations and their ministers had the opportunity to observe the ancient ceremonial customs of Passover and to learn their historical background.

Rabbi Mandel explained the use of the various traditional foods served at the Seder. He pointed out that the Haggadah which contains the complete order of the service has been published in over 1500 editions and is one of the oldest textbooks of Freedom in history. It is read in every Jewish home on the eve of the Passover.

Commenting on some of the parallels between Passover and Easter, Rabbi Mandel pointed out that "Passover is mistakenly called the Jewish Easter." He said, "both holidays recount two miracles of Spring . . . Easter culminates in the glorious faith of Christianity symbolized by the resurrection of a single human being while Passover has always represented the redemption of a people from bondage and the eternal promise of future redemption.

If it is possible to say so, Passover represents for Jews the Humanity of God while Easter signifies the Divinity of Man."

Rabbi Mandel summed up by saying, "Thus the ancient Flight of Hebrew slaves from the cavary

Principal inventors of the submarine included a farmer, a painter, a school teacher and an engineer.

Tryout Session To Be Held Saturday at 9

The first practice and tryout session of the Newton North Little League will be held at the high school field this Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, according to an announcement made at a meeting of the league directors held at the Y.M.C.A.

Application forms and registration cards will be distributed this week through the public and parochial schools for completion by the parents of the young aspirants. Boys in the 8 to 12 year bracket only, who reside in Newton, Newtonville, West Newton and Auburndale are eligible to participate in the Newton North circuit. Each of the four teams in the league will carry a roster of 15 players who will be selected from a central pool.

All parents of potential Little Leaguers attended a meeting at Newton High School auditorium last Monday night when motion pictures of a Little League in operation were shown as well as an explanation of the purpose and operation of the League was presented.

League President Frank Copp stated that the tentative opening day has been set for May 26, and that games will be played every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights for nine weeks. Friday nights will be held open for playing off postponed games. The only deviation from this schedule will be for a single Saturday morning game which will be broadcast over station WBZ on a date to be announced later.

Mr. Copp emphasized that the parents will be responsible for transporting Little Leaguers to the playing field.

Girls Form Group To Work In Behalf of Taft

Three girls from Newton have formed a "Vote for Taft on April 29th." Poster Brigade. They held their first formal meeting one half hour before the regularly scheduled "Taft for President Club of Newton" meeting, in the Sky Room of Filenes in Chestnut Hill recently, and plan to have similar meetings each week thereafter.

During these meetings they plan to exchange ideas for posters, with each girl specializing on one particular type of poster.

One of the girls is in her third year at Radcliffe, another is in her second year at Newton High School, and the third is the secretary for a local real estate firm.

Harriet Hoffman is the daughter of Carroll Hoffman (the pledged-to-Taft delegate for the Newton area). She is concentrating in Philosophy at Radcliffe and became interested in creating ideas for posters that will point out to Newton voters the seriousness of a military government to all its citizens old and young, in terms of taxes, lives, and personal freedom.

Anne Gregory of Hamlin Road, Newton Centre, has taken an interest in the Student Essay Contest entitled "Why My Parents Should vote for Taft on April 29, 1952" (which is open to all Junior High and High School Students in Newton) and is working to remind her class mates to get in their essays by the closing date of April 17, mailing them to Quincy Taylor, 97 Forest Avenue, West Newton 65, Mass. She wishes to remind them that a $25.00 first prize and a $15.00 second prize are awaiting the writers of the two best essays.

Madeline Scullin, the secretary of the Taft-for-President Club of Newton, is working on posters that will swell the membership of the local Taft Club, and thus reduce the burden on the many hard working members now calling on their neighbors to remind them to vote on April 29th. for Senator Taft.

Anyone with ideas for posters or are willing to help get out the vote for Taft April 29 are asked to contact Madeline Scullin, Secretary, 940 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton Centre, (BI 4-5790).

The three girls will welcome help for the Poster Brigade, as their objective is to have a big original poster on the car of every worker by election day April 29.

Kiwanis Club to Award Six $50 Prizes for Best Essays

Six $50 prizes will be awarded for the best essays on "Liberty; Let's Keep It," the subject of which will be germane to the theme of preserving and promoting liberty and freedom in American ideals and life, has been announced by the Newton Kiwanis Club.

This contest is open to all high school seniors, whether public or parochial, who reside in Newton, and all students who wish to enter will register with their school or librarian not later than Saturday, April 19.

All contestants will report to the Newtonville branch library, 345 Walnut street, April 26 at 9 a.m., and are requested to bring their own pen. Writing paper will be provided. Notes or books are not to be taken into the room while the essays are being written.

Students are advised to prepare by reading basic material about Liberty threats to it, ways to preserve and promote its values under changing conditions and present challenges. This material will be found in American histories, in current events, in periodical articles, and there will be shelf of material available at the Newtonville branch library, to be read on the premises. Those wishing to do so can consult their school and libraries on reference matter and background materials.

The essays will be judged on originality, substance and form and each essay will be assigned a number and the judging will be impersonal and impartial.

The Essay Committee of the Kiwanis Club consists of Thomas J. Lyons, past president, chairman; James P. Gallagher, past president; Walter Hood, and Harold Wooster.

Rev. Dixon Leads Devotions at YMCA

We must have "growing souls" to be active in the Christian life, Rev. W. Edge Dixon, pastor of Newtonville Methodist Church, told members of the YMCA at the Lenten meditation period held in the Colonial Room of the Newton YMCA building, Thursday morning, March 27.

We have to see something beyond our "daily rounds" if we are to succeed as "commissioners of God," said Rev. Dixon. "We must hold to our faith, work and walk with humility, and be thankful that God has found a way and a place for us to work." His talk was the second in a series of four planned by the Christian Emphasis Committee of the Newton Y."

Rev. Richard Schoolmaster, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Newton Highlands, will lead the devotions at the concluding meeting, to be held today, April 10, at 9 a.m. Persons interested are invited to attend, according to Dr. Prentiss Pemberton, chairman of the Christian Emphasis Committee of the Newton Y.M.C.A.

Special Meeting of Voting Members Called for Monday

An official warrant has been posted on the outer door of the church and copies sent to the membership at large calling a special meeting of voting members of the First Unitarian Society in Newton at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the West Newton Unitarian Parish House. The warrant is signed by Joseph C. Skinner, chairman of the trustees, and Merrill E. Bush, clerk of the society.

Under consideration will be "the report of the church trustees relative to proposed additions and alterations to the church buildings, and the questions of appropriations therefor and of authorizing the trustees to take such action for the society as they deem advisable in raising the funds, approving the plans, and letting contracts therefor."

Following a study of several suggested plans, to create more space for the growing West Newton Unitarian Church School, the plan now being considered by the building committee and trustees calls for the filling in of the church courtyard with a one-story structure. This means using the present outside walls and adding roof, floor and partitions. The area thus enclosed will provide six new classrooms, a large kindergarten and a nursery room. It would also give space for a children's chapel and a modern kitchen, additional toilet facilities for the children and a children's coat room. Dining room and kitchen would then be on the first floor.

Detailed plans have been posted on the parish house bulletin board. Rev. John Ogden Fisher, minister and ex-officio member of the building committee, says "Our courtyard will be filling a greater need by housing 150 children than it does at present as parking space for eight cars."

W. B. Weissblatt is chairman of the Building committee, which includes A. Bela Sziklai, E. Webster Whorf, R. Murley, Harold O. Libby, Henry Whitmore, Jr., Robert H. Cobb, Dr. Hans Wains, Dr. Lowell Coulter, Mrs. Julian C. Jaynes, Mrs. Leonard A. Monzert and Mrs. L. Fabian Bachrach, Jr.

Newton Music School Recital Held

Josef Zimbler, cellist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Zimbler Sonofietta, and Mrs. Zimbler, attended the recital of Miss Edna Tuckerman's cello pupils at the All Newton Music School last Friday evening. For the past three years, cello students at the School have been enjoying scholarships awarded by the Newton Chamber Music Committee. Mr. Zimbler, together with Miss Mary Clark, James Remley and Donald March have been the judges in the annual competitions.

Interviewed after the recital Mr. Zimbler said, "I am amazed at this whole performance. In fact, the entire Newton Music School is astonishing. Think of it — 600 young people seriously studying music in a small city like Newton. This must be the highest proportion anywhere. And twenty cellists! That is wonderful, because there is great need for good cellists."

Tryout Session To Be Held Saturday at 9

The first practice and tryout session of the Newton North Little League will be held at Newton High School field this Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Boys who must attend pre-Easter church services that morning will be allowed to try out later in the morning.

Application blanks and registration cards were distributed last week to all public and parochial grammar schools by league secretary Warren Huston. Applications are available at Al Rogan's Sporting Goods store, the Y.M.C.A., Barron's department store, McGill Commodity Service, Edward's Lumber Co., and from Warren Huston, Newton High School football coach.

The formation of a Newton Little League Council was announced by James E. Murphy, Commissioner of Little League baseball in Newton, after a meeting last Thursday with the presidents and secretaries of the three leagues. The council members are Commissioner James Murphy and presidents Frank Copp of Newton North, Everett Bryant of Newton South and Jason R. Silverman of the Newton East league who will be the deciding body in matters of inter-league policy and will arbitrate inter-league disputes.

May 17 was set as the opening date, by the council, for the three leagues. Prior to the formation of the council each league had set tentative opening dates which did not coincide. As the schedule now stands, all leagues will have ample time to play the required number of regular season games before playoff time rolls around.

The council also announced that a tag day will be held on May 8th and 9th, with collections being made by the Little Leaguers in uniform at shopping centers and railroad stations. All money contributed will be used to defray league expenses not covered by sponsor's donations. A percentage of the tag day proceeds will be held by the council to pay transportation costs of pennant winning teams that may become eligible for district and regional playoffs.

The youngest members of the Little League age group, the eight year olds, were assured at least a fighting chance when the council decided that each team must have at least one eight year old player on its roster. Little League rules state that each team shall have not more than five players age 12, or less than five players age 10 or younger on the 15 boy squad. The rules are silent in providing for the little fellows who have attained the tender age of eight. All members of the council felt that unless the eight year old group included an embryo Ted Williams or a miniature Stan Musial competition would overwhelm them and possibly discourage them from future attempts.

Newtonville

To practice what they have been learning, students at the Simmons College School of Library Science, will continue their field study which began March 31. Participating in this program is Miss Joan Swett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Swett, 81 Sheffield Rd., Newtonville, who will do her field study with the Brooklyn Public Library.

Disabled Vets to Be Greeted by Mayor at City Hall Friday

National DAV Officials to Pay Visit Here

Comdr. Ewings W. Mays and Others to Inspect Memorial Building

National Commander Ewings W. Mays, D.A.V. of Little Rock, Ark., together with other national, state and local officers will be greeted by Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood of Newton tomorrow afternoon (Friday) at 4 o'clock. Department heads who served during World Wars I and II will also be on hand to greet the distinguished guests.

The group will also inspect the Aldermanic Council Chamber, and the War Memorial Building, one of the very few of its kind in the country.

Commander Mays was a member of the original American Rangers who were trained by British Commandos. E. W. Mays, like 199 other survivors of that fearless group of 2,000, is seriously disabled, yet to see him operate his loss is not apparent. At Messina in Italy, he was hit by 210 mm. fire from an Italian Naval Battalion which cost him both legs.

Since discharge after long months of hospitalization, Mays got a job with the State Land Commissioner at the Capitol in Little Rock, Ark. He is married and the father of two daughters.

He joined D.A.V. in 1941, Chapter Commander, Second National Junior Vice Commander 1948-'49, First National Junior Vice Commander 1949-'50, 14 District National Executive Committee, 1950-'51, and was elected National Commander 1951 at the National Convention in Milwaukee.

Accompanying Commander Mays are the following officers: Ivian Corby, National Adjutant; John Feighner, Assistant National Adjutant; Julian J. Jackson, National Public Relations Officer; Mrs. Thelma Feighner, National Commander, Auxiliary; Mrs. Ann Weber, National Adjutant, Auxiliary; Mrs. Eva Rood, State Commander, Auxiliary; Tim J. O'Neill, State Commander, D.A.V.; Walter Mason, State Senior Vice Commander; Paul Sullivan, Junior Vice Commander, 1st District; George Lynch, Junior Vice Commander, 2nd District; Anthony Palmieri, Junior Vice Commander, 3rd District.

GOP to Hold Finance Drive Here

Walter S. Railsback and Miss Sara Danner to Head Campaign

Walter S. Railsback and Miss Sara Danner have been appointed Finance Chairman and Deputy Finance chairman respectively for the Newton Republican spring finance drive to be held in conjunction with "Operation Spearhead". United Republican Canvass now taking place in Massachusetts until May 15, it was announced this week by Richard Preston of Hamilton, general chairman of the Massachusetts Republican Finance Committee.

Chairman Railsback, who resides at 197 Fuller street, and Deputy Chairman Danner, 119 Waban avenue, will stress neighbor-to-neighbor solicitation in meeting the Newton quota towards the $750,000 statewide minimum canvas target. This 1952 spring campaign is the first time in party history that state Republicans have put on such an early finance drive. Funds raised will be used to support the campaigns of national, state and local Grand New Party candidates during this election year.

The newly-appointed leaders for the United Republican Canvass in Newton will be assisted by a local committee of sufficient numbers to insure a visit to every home where a Republican or Independent voter resides.

Vote to Build New Addition to West Newton Church

Children's Chapel and 8 More Church School Rooms to Be Added

A children's chapel and eight more church school classrooms will be provided by an addition to the present church buildings, estimated to cost about $60,000, was unanimously voted Monday night by the First Unitarian Society in Newton at a special parish meeting held in the West Newton Unitarian parish house.

Joseph C. Skinner, chairman of the trustees, presented the report of the special committee on buildings, already approved by the board. Brigadier-General Daniel Needham was moderator and H. Carlton Moore acted as clerk pro tem. Sixty-eight voting members of the church attended.

A. B. Szilas, architect member of the building committee, displayed and explained the unique building plan he has conceived of creating additional space for church school classrooms, children's chapel and downstairs kitchen and extra facilities by roofing over the present courtyard, around which the beautiful Gothic church edifice and parish house were originally built in 1905. The First Unitarian Society in Newton dates back to 1848.

The plans call for the enclosure of the courtyard, which now serves only as parking space for eight cars, by a flat roof to form a one-story space of 4700 square feet over a partial excavation. The proposed structure would also contain a new kitchen, adjacent to and connected with the parish hall, which then could be used more effectively for dinner meetings. According to the latest revised plans, only one new exterior wall is needed. The new construction will not affect the stained glass windows of the main church, nor will it disturb the Gothic architecture of the buildings. It will cover those windows of the parish hall, Alliance Room and the office corridor facing the courtyard. The cost of increased heat requirement.

To Hold Rally for Eisenhower Monday Night

To Feature Cong. Herter and Many Others — To Be Held at H. S.

The Eisenhower-for-President rally, scheduled for Monday, April 21, at Newton High School auditorium, will start promptly at 8:15 p.m., according to L. J. Calkins, president of the Newton Republican Club. Jointly sponsored by the Newton Republican Club and the Newton-Eisenhower Club, the rally will feature an outstanding array of talent.

First on the program will be Congressman Christian A. Herter to be followed by Mrs. Iola Pinanski, who will introduce Joseph Nolan and Mrs. Irene K. Thresher, alternate delegates pledged to Eisenhower.

Musical entertainment will be provided by the Wild Azaleas, well-known radio, television, and recording trio. The feature speaker of the evening will be Governor Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, who has gained nationwide recognition for his early and enthusiastic support of Eisenhower. Questions from the floor will be welcome.

The doors will be open at 8 p.m. All those interested are urged to come early since there is every indication that there will be a "standing room only" crowd according to Robert R. Walker, president of the Newton Eisenhower Club.

The new law, which went into effect January 1, gives additional benefits for most employees and provides that any changes made in the State Retirement Law by the Legislature in the future shall be applicable to the local system.

The Newton Retirement Board covers all employees of the city except teachers and elected officials. The old system was established by special act of the Legislature with no provision made for including any additional benefits enacted by the Legislature. The new system will include any new benefits granted by the Legislature but still permits the city to have its own method of financing.

Easter Seal Drive Now Lacks Total of $528 in Quota Set Here

Newton residents have contributed $5,023 towards the Easter Seal drive and $528 must be secured in order to attain the quota set for the city.

Efforts to secure the additional sum is being made and it is hoped that Newton will be able to report its full quota.

ments will be offset in part by the elimination of four one-story outside surfaces. An additional heater unit will be located in the excavation adjacent to the present heater. As the latter is now taxed to capacity its usefulness will be prolonged by the addition of a new plant. Lighting of the building in the courtyard can be artificial or natural, or both.

In addition, the present second-floor kitchen and dining room may be partitioned or remodeled into a project room and a social room for the Jaynes League, this clubroom to include the present dining room and Tower Room with fireplace. The eventual plans also show the circular staircase from the front lobby of the parish hall eliminated. The space gained, plus the present utility room, is added to the men's dressing room, so that another dressing room for the choir can be partitioned off. Except for installation of toilets, the changes contemplated on the present second floor of the parish house do not presume the employment of highly skilled labor.

The proposed development may be undertaken either as a whole or in two parts as funds become available. The first part, consisting of the enclosure of the courtyard will of necessity be undertaken first. The second part, consisting of the changes on the second floor and the alteration of the men's coat room and toilet on the first floor may be done at later date, if necessary.

Willard B. Weissblatt, chairman of the special committee on buildings, and member of the board of trustees, presented the motion to authorize the trustees to go ahead with the proposed additions and alterations to the church buildings, and to take such action for the Society as they deem advisable in raising the funds, approving the plans, and dieting contracts therefor.

Also voted was a motion, made by Joseph C. Skinner and amended by Henry W. Merrill, to limit any necessary mortgage for this building project to $24,000. About $12,000 of the necessary $60,000 estimated cost will come from funds held by the dispersed Newton Centre Unitarian Church, many of whose members are now active in the West Newton Unitarian Church, the meeting was informed. The balance will be raised by pledges over a period of two years and by special contributions.

Rev. John Ogden Fisher, now rounding out his second year as minister of the First Unitarian Society in Newton, voiced the pressing need for more facilities for the growing church school, enrollment in which has increased within the last year twenty-five percent to 125, from nursery through high school age. He also stressed the advantage of having the kitchen on the first floor in order to use the larger parish hall, instead of the upper stairs dining room, for parish suppers. At present every available space in the parish house, including the minister's study, offices, mimeograph room, cloak rooms, and even the stage, as well as the second-floor kitchen and dining room have been pressed into service as Sunday School classrooms. Even the church yard has been used on occasion.

The proposed new ward structure will include a children's chapel to seat 80 to 100, a kindergarten room, nursery room, six or more classrooms, some with movable partitions, storage space, and special additional boys' and girls' toilet facilities and cloak rooms.

The Special Committee on buildings comprises Willard B. Weissblatt, chairman; Mrs. Lillian E. Reuter, Mrs. Harold A. Wooster, Mrs. Ruth Herring, Nancy Rhodes, Nancy Ross, Jacqueline Reuter, Audrey Higgins, Jean Obermeyer, Catherine Harting, Nancy Tilton, Mary Winsor, Janine Thierry, Joan McHugh, Suzanne Myers, June McPhee, Michaela Cleary, Nancy Lamb, Doris Farley, Eleanor Crean, Beverly Snow, Donna Hudgins, Anna Shaw, Nancy Moll, Winifred Johnson, Shirley McGrath, Lucy Earls, Karen Obermeyer, Jane Winchester, Janice Walsh, Mary Hoppe, Marjorie Doyle, Virginia Millett, Judith Forbes, Jane Willey, and Peggy Hobbs.

All the girls attend Weeks Junior High School, Newton High School, or Sacred Heart High School. A few of the group are just entering Senior Scouting at the end of this year.

Osborne, who has the male lead for the third year in a row, has been active in dramatics throughout his years in the Newton Schools and has appeared in all the plays presented by these two clubs. Mrs. Malanson is employed at West Newton Wireless Press and is a member of the Methodist Church Choir and the Young People's Club and the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club.

The real estate lien law cases have helped reduce Old Age Assistance cases by 40, but expenditures of the Public Welfare Department are up nevertheless, according to Edmund J. Poutas, Newton welfare agent, in his March report.

The new real estate lien law makes Old Age recipients sign liens on their real estate in favor of the city in the amount of money received. This may be enforced at the death of the recipient. Old age cases dropped from 1014 costing $77,000 in February to 974 costing $75,000 in March. There were 1011 costing $69,000 in March, 1951.

Expenditures by the department were $101,000 this March, but only $96,000 in March, 1951. There were 144 cases of aid to dependent children last month as compared to 142 in February and 163 in March, 1951. General Relief cases numbered 44 in March compared with 73 in February and 129 last year.

A new category, Disability Relief cases, numbered 44 in March compared to 42 the month before.

John H. Crider's Column

Ever alert to provide Newton citizens with the best in a newspaper, The Graphic is now running exclusively in this area a new "Our New England" column written for a selected group of newspapers by John H. Crider, until recently editor-in-chief of The Boston Herald.

This column is non-political and is devoted to the presentation and discussion of news of general interest throughout the six New England states. Its purpose is to develop a greater "New England consciousness" and get more things done on a regional basis, particularly by our representatives in Congress.

Mr. Crider, for nineteen years prior to becoming editor-in-chief of The Boston Herald, was a member of the news staff of The New York Times, and specialized in national economic and financial news. In 1940-41 he was one of the first two New York Times men to become Nieman fellows at Harvard University.

In Washington he covered the Temporary National Economic Committee hearings, accompanied President Roosevelt to both Quebec conferences, covered the Bretton Woods conference in 1944, and was one of a staff of four New York Times correspondents covering the United Nations conference in San Francisco, in 1945.

He is the author of The Bureaucrat, a book about Washington bureaucracy and its philosophy, published by Lippincott in 1944.

At its meeting in New York City in April, 1949, the United States Council of the International Chamber of Commerce presented two awards for editorials on the subject of international economic relations. The award for newspapers with a circulation of more than fifty thousand was given to Crider for an editorial published in the Boston Herald of Sunday, July 25, 1948 entitled, "The Sentimental Approach." The Pulitzer Prize "for distinguished editorial writing during the year (1948)" was presented on May 2, 1949. In May, 1950, Mr. Crider was presented the Sigma Delta Chi (Professional Journalistic Fraternity) Distinguished Service Award in recognition of his service to the American people and to the profession of journalism through outstanding accomplishment during the year 1949 in the field of editorial writing.

Since resigning the editorship of The Herald in November, 1951, five years after his arrival in Boston, Mr. Crider has opened his own office for the practice of free lance journalism at 100 Boylston street, Boston. His principal activity is a nightly broadcast as a Columbia Broadcasting System news analyst from Station WEEI, Boston. In addition to this writing a weekly column for newspapers throughout New England, he is also writing for national magazines.

Why Income Shrinks

If you wonder who's to blame when your income doesn't buy what it did a few years ago, you'll be safe in deciding that the Federal government is chiefly responsible.

First of all, if you and each member of your family pay your proportionate share of the $85,444,000,000 budget for fiscal 1953, on a population basis it will cost you $531 apiece. If you have a wife and two children, that means $2,124 off your gross income.

Worse still, the dollars you have left after this payment are worth only 53 cents each as compared with the prewar dollar. The government not only will take $2,124 of your income, but practically has halved the value of your remaining dollars by following inflationary policies.

And the situation won't get any better until a majority of the 155,000,000 Americans demand Federal economy and enforce that demand.

Turning Away from the Facts

One trouble with price and wage controls is that they obscure the true causes of inflation. A great many people fallaciously believe that all that is necessary is to pass a new law or effect a new ruling, and all will be taken care of.

That attitude is 100 percent wrong. As has been said time and time again, price and wage controls deal only with the symptoms of inflation, never with inflation itself.

Measures must be employed if inflation is to be fought effectively during a war emergency. These measures are: general credit controls, including higher interest rates and curtailed Federal Reserve support of the government bond market; reduction in non-defense spending at the national, state and local levels; the use of types of taxation that will effectively reduce consumer spending without increasing the total tax burden; and, all possible encouragement to increased production.

Practically all the recognized economists are in agreement with such general principles. The roots of inflation go deep into the whole economy and can destroy a free country. The greatest spur to inflation is reckless government spending. It is an ironical fact that the government urges the people to save and to curtail their purchasing, even as it tosses money to the winds like a drunken sailor.

The danger of inflation is still with us. And the danger will remain so long as the men in power refuse to act on the facts.

Sunday School Week

The 215,000 or more Sunday schools in America have an opportunity to avoid the usual post-Easter slump in attendance and interest by participating in America's eighth annual Sunday School Week this week. Beginning the morning after Easter, this seven day, all-faith observance will seek to have every adult and child attend the Sunday school of his choice this Sunday, April 20.

Sponsors of Sunday School Week, the Laymen's National Committee, a non-profit group of business men and women, also seek to honor the work already accomplished by the Sunday school movement in America. So great is the influence of the Sunday school upon American life that it is impossible to think of a community where the Sunday school is unknown.

Most of the country's 2,000,000 Sunday school teachers are unpaid workers who feel a deep concern for the religious education of growing minds. The majority of church members and workers come through the door of the Sunday school.

Protestant, Jewish, and Roman Catholic leaders have united behind the slogan, "Rebuild character into our youth of today." The shocking revelations of the past year of moral breakdown among Americans makes it more important than ever that the influence of the Sunday school be brought into every home in the land.

Over in Birmingham, England, Ephraim Morgan was granted a divorce from his 47-year-old wife on grounds of cruelty after he testified that she vacuumed the floor outside his bedroom door every day at 4 a.m.

Police in Mansfield, Ohio, found two fat hens under the coat of a man who claimed: "I was walking down the street, and they followed me."

Mrs. Agnes Roche, 39, of Long Beach, Calif., a divorcee with eight children, was swamped with answers to her newspaper advertisement offering to marry "a nice man who wants a lot of income-tax exemptions."

When Joseph R. Cook was asked to remove his cap in a Milwaukee public library reading room, he angrily ripped up newspapers and magazines, finally explained to police that he didn't want to muss his hair, was found to be almost bald.

A man who insisted he was a "civilian" being threatened with a lawsuit telephoned the Civil Defense Director James W. Ault in Toledo and asked to be defended.

Local boosters in Tampa, Fla., loudly boasted of 352 days of sunshine every year, put on a Chamber of Commerce Day and were rained out.

An annual Friends report chided Philadelphia Quakers for too much talk and not enough meditation at recent meetings, maintained there was "no chance for God to get a word in."

A Waukomis, Oklahoma, farmer named Virgil Beard collected $75 from his insurance company to get his automobile repainted after the original coat was licked off by his 25 cows.

An Arlington, Va., judge let Haywood L. Miller off with a $15 fine on charges of reckless driving and fleeing from highway police at 70 miles an hour after Miller explained: "I was out with another man's wife, and I thought that was who was chasing me."

Jake Bovenkamp of Lynden, Wash., ran an advertisement in that community's newspaper offering to sell 120 tons of hay, preferably "to Republicans only."

Charles Cline, 30, a one-time conscientious objector who served two years in a Michigan federal prison for refusing to shoulder arms, was given one to three years in Ohio Penitentiary for carrying a concealed weapon.

Out in Des Moines, Cab Driver William A. Roach hired a man to beat him up, was hauled off to a hospital, told police he "thought my former wife would come here to see me," learned too late that she couldn't make it.

OUR NEW ENGLAND

Lays Blame for Industrial Problems to Political Zeal In Keeping Labor Happy

By JOHN H. CRIDER

Proposals by the administrations of Rhode Island and Massachusetts to create devices at the state level to attract new industries and assist the expansion or modernization of existing industries have run into partisan and, what might be called, ideological opposition. These are the two states of the area which have suffered most from industrial losses and which have the biggest problem with industrial environments.

Both of these states have Democratic administrations closely allied with organized labor and have certain compulsion from this alliance to do something about increasing employment. But they seem to be torn, understandably, between two contradictory forces. On the one hand they want to keep the workers happy by maintaining generous social security laws—workmen's compensation, unemployment insurance, and so forth—and on the other, they want to entice the industrialists by giving them such financial assistance as they can to stay in these states or to move into them.

The difficulty arises, however, from the fact that the costly assists to the working man in these states have been carried so far by the zeal of politicians of both parties to satisfy the workers over the years that these high tax costs of themselves are a major factor in the current difficulties they are having with industry.

There are many contradictions in this situation. We can be proud of the fact as New Englanders that we here in this part of the country pioneered the social benefits for workers which have now become virtually universal in the industrial areas of the world. We certainly don't want to undo these benefits which play a considerable part in keeping our skilled working force here. But what should be done, it becomes increasingly clear, is to resurvey them along with governmental costs in general to see what can be done for the industrial tax payer as well as for the working man.

Superficially, there wouldn't seem to be much political gain in this as industry—that is, management, has no political power as compared with the workers, but in the present situation unless the politicians take time out to work constructively for the improvement of business environment they will be guilty of stabbing their worker friends in the back. There will simply be fewer and fewer jobs.

Excessive Taxation

The foregoing comprises a summary in mild form of one of the main arguments employed against the Roberts Plan in Rhode Island and the Dever approaches to the same problem in Massachusetts. This argument of the opponents is that in both states the political leaders are offering palliatives rather than cures—that for the states to give financial assistance to business for plant and other purposes does nothing to cure the basic fault of excessive taxation due to governmental extravagance and excessive social security benefits.

The legislative situation is much simpler in Rhode Island than in Massachusetts, and although the objectives of the administrations are about the same, they are developing along different paths. In both states the argument of the opposition are close to identical.

The Republicans, with their recently gained slim majority in the Rhode Island Senate have been giving the Roberts administration a hard time. At one recent session 25 bills forced out of committee by the Democratic minority were back in the same committees after 27 roll call votes. Among the bills was Governor Roberts' pet Industrial Development Corporation Bill to create a $1,000,000 state fund to assist industry with plant construction and/or modernization.

That bill was very close to the one which Governor Dever asked for in his annual message, but attacks by opponents have left the situation so fogged that as of this writing it seems unlikely that the original Dever concept will reach the legislative floor.

A recess commission named by the Massachusetts executive last year to study the exodus of industry and what to do about it has been giving serious consideration to various substitutes for the original idea of the state fund which Governor Roberts has adopted. One of them, previously explained in this column, would have nothing at the state level but an over-all planning and promotional agency—a service organization to both industries and municipal governments—but the financial inducements to be offered industry would be through privately financed Development Foundations in such municipalities as cared to form them.

The figures for last year will be out soon and there is some expectation that they will show a marked gain over 1950. It is clear that this is a field in which New England can do more to meet a national need. However, if we haven't gained much in recent years we need not hide our heads in shame, for the national total was less than in 1950 (120 billion pounds) than it was in 1945 (121½ billion pounds).

American is making much of her pride at being in New England for so long, and I think we should be proud of such excellent service as American has provided us since the days of goggled pilots and open cockpit planes.

Would Set Up Fund

A new proposal, supported by the Governor and his Banking Commissioner, has recently undergone hearings before the commission. It would set up a $250,000 fund to be used for assisting incoming corporations to build plants and existing ones to expand or modernize. The so-called Industrial Development Fund would be administered by a board of bankers and would be provided by the investment in its securities by financial institutions operating under state charters. These would be permitted to subscribe up to five per cent of their deposits in the securities of the fund.

Connecticut is the first State to establish by statute a rate equal to the 75-cent minimum wage rate set by the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act.

Taft Has More Delegate Votes Than Ike . . .

It would be reasonably safe to pawn the family silverware, mortgage the homestead, get a loan on your car and wager whatever you raised that General Eisenhower will be the next President of the United States—if it were not for a determined and business-like gent named Robert A. Taft who is now in the process of making an all-out drive for Massachusetts support at the Republican national convention.

Eisenhower is very likely to have a more difficult time achieving the Republican Presidential nomination than he is in winning election if the G.O.P. designates him as its standard-bearer for next fall's campaign.

Most of the political seers and sharps now privately rate Ike as a strong betting favorite to capture the Republican convention, in view of the fact that he's coming home well before it's held.

But one thing to remember is that so far Taft has seized up substantially more delegate votes than the General, and it's very possible that he'll still have the edge in that respect when the G.O.P. conclave is called to order in Chicago on July 7.

Another thing to keep in mind in sizing up the Presidential picture is that the sentiment for Taft and Eisenhower varies sharply in different sections of the country. Ike is strongest in the East. Taft appears to have a big edge in the Middle West and probably in the South.

This has been an unusual Presidential battle, and if Taft should win the nomination, it will be a remarkable story of man who was all but knocked out in the opening rounds and climbed up from the floor to come back fighting harder than ever.

A less courageous campaigner than Taft might have thrown in the towel after the reverses he suffered in New Hampshire and Minnesota, just as the late Wendell Willkie bowed out of the race in 1944 when Wisconsin's voters administered him a rebuke.

But where Willkie took himself out of the contest after a defeat in one State, Taft withstood the impact of heavy blows in two widely separated States and then surged back into the running with a series of spectacular showings in Nebraska, Wisconsin and Illinois.

In a number of areas Taft has had to overcome the opposition of top Republican leaders. Senators Lodge and Saltonstall and Congressman Herter are against him here in Massachusetts. Governor Adams directed the campaign for Eisenhower in New Hampshire. Governor Driscoll steered the Ike bandwagon in New Jersey.

This is a do-or-die year for Taft. He has been running for President since 1940, when he was blitzed by Willkie. He stepped aside for Senator Bricker in 1944 but then returned to the battle line in '48 only to go down before the Dewey drive.

If Taft loses this bid to Eisenhower, it will bring down the curtain on his Presidential hopes. In fact, after his previous unsuccessful campaigns it's amazing that he's as strong today as he is.

As Taft stages his all-out drive for support in the Massachusetts Presidential primary a week from next Tuesday, he's weighted down by three serious handicaps:

1. He has a glamorous opponent with tremendous popular appeal.

2. A great many of his own party members would like to vote for him but believe he would not be as strong a candidate as Eisenhower.

3. He can't blast out at an opponent who is 3000 miles away.

From the standpoint of practical politics, Eisenhower's absence from the U.S. political scene probably has hurt Taft more than it has the General, and if Taft had his way it's very likely that Ike would have been home long before this.

One reason for Eisenhower's great popularity, aside from his brilliant military record, is that no one knows where he stands on a number of controversial issues, and most people are assuming that he sees things their way on these questions.

When the time arrives for Ike to declare himself, some of his admirers are going to part company with him, for in a campaign of this kind it's impossible to satisfy all elements.

White it would be impossible to prove it, the guessing is that Eisenhower's lieutenants have insisted that he remain in Europe until the popular primaries are over and the general public have recorded their sentiments.

There hasn't been very much Taft could do except sit back and await developments, realizing that Ike would have to return eventually to have any real hope of capturing the nomination and that when he did he would have little alternative but to say where he stands on a number of questions.

But while he has been waiting, he has never slowed down the tempo of his own drive. And as we have watched this man with his tremendous vigor and drive, his quick and brilliant mind, his candor and frankness, we have the feeling that even with an opponent of the stature of General Eisenhower, it would be silly, indeed, to sell Robert A. Taft short.

Special Program to Be Held at Community Council Meeting

The invitations to the Annual Dinner, business meeting and special program of the Newton Community Council contain the "another Community Service of YOUR Newton Community Council." This event on Tuesday, April 22 at 6:30 p.m. at the City Hall Cafeteria for the dinner and business meeting followed by the special meeting at 8:00 in War Memorial Hall is indicative of the Community Council's function in the city. That is, to "serve as the pulse of the community."

Always mindful of the fact that the Council's position is one of helping Newton's agencies and organizations to better serve the interests of the citizens of the city, a recent suggestion emanating from the Public Relations Committee of the Newton Community Chest to the Council was received with enthusiasm by the latter. The suggestion was that the program at the Council's annual meeting be devoted to a panel discussion of modern public relations techniques with audience participation.

Any Newton citizen interested in attending this meeting is cordially invited. While the discussions will be of particular value to chairmen of publicity committees in the city, every Newtonite should find them of value and offering much sound information.

Under a capable and enthusiastic committee composed of members of the Council, and the Public Relations Committee of the Chest, the following panel will efficiently cover the field of modern public relations procedures. Clyde S. Casady, Executive Director, Savings Bank Life Insurance Council, will act as Moderator. Members of the panel include: Robert P. Kelsey, Vice-President, in charge of Public Relations of the John Hancock Life Insurance Company; Alta Maloney, feature writer for the Boston Traveler; Bill Sherman, Program Director, radio station WCRB; and Robert R. Walker, Public Relations Counsel.

Committee members include: Leo Barry, Mrs. Sylvester McGinn, Robert R. Walker, Mrs. J. Lawrence Oncley, Murray E. Sholkin, Mrs. Manuel Beckwith, Mrs. Newell Trask, and Adelaide B. Ball.

This is the first time such a program has been offered in Newton and its value to present and future public relations chairmen should not be overlooked. Newton is fortunate in receiving fine cooperation from its local papers but information for the task of presenting better and more pertinent copy for release will aid both the organizations and the press.

Currently, both terms, "publicity" and "public relations" are much in use. One of the questions which will be answered during the course of the evening will be "What are the basic differences between publicity and public relations?" Other questions to be answered are "What types of printed material are most effec-

...the colorful crocus, bringing tidings of spring-time.

I have some little crocuses That come up in the spring Before the ground is hardly warm, I watch them opening.

Their dress is very pretty Of yellow, mauve and white, They remind me of the fairies They look so small and bright.

When you look into their faces It is a pretty sight So dainty and so delicate They dance in sunny light.

They bring a happy message That winter time is done, The robins too are coming And gardening will be fun.

Our spirits may be just as pure As those wee springtime flowers, If we only seek God's will And bless the sunny hours.

Play, Glee Club Presented Recently At Community Club

Mrs. Samuel E. Cutler showed herself equally capable as director and actress when the one-act comedy "Dist Begins Tomorrow," was presented before the Newton Community Club on Monday afternoon in Grace Church Parish House. Mrs. Cutler gave a deft and amusing portrayal of Lulu, the colored cook whose tempting viands finally overcome the wills of four valiant women intent on losing "five or ten" pounds.

Mrs. Morgan S. Campbell, as Lulu's mistress, contributed a fine performance of a woman who is willing to try exercise to lose weight. Mrs. George E. Rawson, Mrs. John L. Snider, and Mrs. Henry C. Jones, Jr., as her three friends, did much toward making the play a gay and laughter-provoking affair. Assisting Mrs. Cutler was Mrs. Edgar M. Horne, who, in charge of lights and properties, arranged a most attractive setting.

The afternoon began with dessert served at 1:30, after which the Girls' Glee Club of Bigelow Junior High School gave a varied program. This was followed by the regular business meeting of the club, preceding the performance of the play.

Two Sides of a Railroad Ledger

1. MAIN INCOME ITEM is freight. It brings in about 70% of New York Central's income. That's why it's been so serious for freight rates to lag far behind wages and supply costs... leaving your Railroad too little net earnings to go on with all improvements planned to serve you better.

2. PASSENGER TICKETS provide only about 15% of Central's income. Another 11.8% comes from mail, express, and even such items as vending machine concessions in stations... for these days, a railroad needs every penny! The final 2.8% of Central's 1951 income came from investments.

3. 110,000 PAY ENVELOPES plus employee benefits take 60% of all Central income. Almost 24% goes for fuel, rails, and hundreds of things Central buys at prices that have risen far more than its own rates! Depreciation takes 4.4%. Interest, rent, etc., 5.8%. Taxes 4.2%. Leaving 1.8% net.

4. EVERYBODY SHARES! In 1951, Central railroaders spent $463,546,000 in states and towns like yours. The things Central bought helped farms and local industries. It's one more way your Railroad forms a living part of every community on its lines. And by the simple process of saving regularly.

SAVE REGULARLY · SAVE REGULARLY

Thousands of people save millions of dollars

It's a fine idea to bank substantial amounts,
but the opportunity to add a dollar or two certainly comes around much more often.

Save as much as you can as often as you can.

Complete Plans for Presentation Of Spring Play, "The Dead of Night"

Mrs. Edward F. Roberts, chairman of the Steering Committee, for the spring play, The Dead of Night, to be presented by the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club and the Emerson Parent Teacher's Association, April 24 and 25, in the Emerson School Auditorium, Newton Upper Falls, is completing plans for the production which is being given to raise money for the Scholarship Funds of the two clubs. Mrs. Sylvester Mazzone and Mrs. Arthur Walker, co-chairmen of the Ticket Committee, have arranged for the village to be completely canvassed by a corps of able assistants.

Mr. Kenneth Newcomb, who will coach The Emerson Players in the three act mystery set in a rural Vermont village, can be very proud of his talented cast. Mr. Newcomb has long been associated with amateur dramatics in Newton Upper Falls and in Biddeford, Maine. In recent years he has directed productions of "The Green Light," "Nothing But The Truth," "The Late Christopher Bean," "Ring Around Elizabeth," and "Petticoat Fever." Last fall he directed and also acted in a one act drama, "The Red Key."

Mr. Herbert Callahan, assistant principal of the new Bowen School, is a newcomer to the dramatic field but shows great promise in the romantic lead. After graduating from Boston University School of Journalism, he attended Boston University School of Education and received his Masters Degree.

Playing opposite Mr. Callahan is Mrs. Phyllis Ness, of Medfield, the former Phyllis Generazio of Watertown.

Newton Upper Falls, who has appeared in several local plays. She is employed as stenographer at Carter's in Needham.

Mrs. Evelyn Dorrance, President of the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club, is actively supporting her club's project by taking her first part in an amateur production. Mrs. Dorrance lives in Newton Highlands and is active in the Girl Scouts and the Weeks Parent Teacher Association. Her husband, Mr. Thomas Dorrance, who is also in the play, works as Financial Accountant for the Gulf Oil Company in Boston. Last year, Mr. Dorrance played the Englishman in "Petticoat Fever."

Another husband and wife team taking part in the play is that of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Panella. Mr. Panella is on the Executive Board of the Emerson Parent Teacher's Association, a member of the Newton Upper Falls Improvement Association, and the Needham Social Club and is on the Republican Committee for Ward 5 in Newton. He works for the Thomas Worcester Engineers, Inc., on State Street in Boston. Helen Panella, his wife, once lived in a house in Brookline of which it can truly be said, "George Washington Slept Here!"

Mr. Dino Taliano has appeared in two other productions presented by these same groups. He lives in Newton Upper Falls and is employed by the Brusene Company in Watertown.

The concluding concert of the 1951-52 Wellesley Concert Series will take place Wednesday, April 23, at 8 p.m. in Alumnae Hall, Wellesley College. This concert will be a slight departure from the usual, inasmuch as the spoken word will be employed as well as song and instrument.

In planning this unique program, the Series wished to bring its audience more than a concert of folk music delightfully sung and played by the charming, young Susan Reed. It wanted the origin and place of folk music in American culture to be clearly defined and therefore chose a very eminent authority to speak about this increasingly important and vital subject. Carl Sandburg has studied American folksongs and dances in many sections of our great country and has published several volumes of texts and comment. He brings to this task his great sensitivity as one of the foremost American poets, and his scholarly patience as the great biographer of Lincoln. He has known Miss Reed and her family for many years and regards her work as a fine contribution to the literature and rendition of folk music.

The program is divided into five parts, three by Mr. Sandburg who will talk about the origin of folksongs, negro spirituals and "modern folksongs in the making," and two groups of Nova Scotian, Irish, Southern Mountain and other American songs by Miss Reed. She will accompany herself on the Irish harp and Zither and again demonstrate the particular flair for the artful simplicity of folksongs which has made her famous.

The joint recital by Susan Reed and Carl Sandburg on April 23 promises a most unusual and delightful evening.

Community Passover Seder Is Held at Temple Reyim

Last Thursday evening, members of the congregation and their guests attended a community passover seder at Temple Reyim, 321 Chestnut street, West Newton.

This affair marked a new innovation in the affairs of the temple, as this was the first passover seder held in the new temple building.

In a dining hall decorated with many beautiful floral bouquets, candlelight services were conducted by Rabbi Harold D. Kastle who related the age old tale of the redemption of the Hebrews from Egypt by God, through the efforts of Moses. Kiddush was chanted by Mr. Benjiamin Waldman. Rabbi Kastle made a serious attempt to relate the traditional festival of Passover to the modern struggle for freedom, everywhere.

Rabbi and Mrs. Kastle present-

A unique feature of this seder was that there was 100 per cent audience participation in the services, and songs were sung by all.

The traditional four questions were asked both in English and Hebrew by the following children: Donna Resh, Earl Stein, Stanley Liner, Carol Kerble, Edward Kerble, Elliott Wyner, and Barbara Perlmuter. A modern interpretation of the ten plagues was told by Meryl Liner. A special duet was sung by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rosenfeld.

Presidential Primary Day Tuesday

Voters to Elect Party Delegates

Interest Centers In the Eisenhower-Taft Outcome For Delegates

Newton citizens are reminded by the League of Women Voters of Newton that Tuesday, April 29th, is Presidential Primary Day in Massachusetts. On that day, all registered voters will have the opportunity to elect delegates to the National Convention of their party and will assist in setting up their party's State and local organizations by electing State and local committee members.

The League urges every qualified voter to vote in the Primary in order to express his preference for President. Independents can and should vote in the Primary by asking for either the Democratic or Republican ballot at the polls. If they so desire, independents can have their names removed from the party rolls after the Primary.

The following are the delegates and alternates running from the tenth congressional district to the National Convention. Group I of the Democratic party is not officially pledged to any particular candidate. Group I of the Republican party, according to press releases, is pledged to Eisenhower.

Carter is engaged in the investigation of metal failures in guns and other items manufactured at the Arsenal. Through a close scrutiny of the microstructure of these metals, he and his co-workers are often able to discover defects in the metal and to interpret to the production department why these defects exist.

"Every sample we photograph and study is different," said Carter. "We must know not only the piece of metal photographed, but its history, how it was used and why."

In addition to his duties at the Arsenal, Carter is an instructor at Northeastern University graduate school. During World War II, he taught evening courses at the University in metallurgy.

Home Value $6000 Above Average: Perry

The average value of the 22,692 dwelling units in Newton is $6000 above the national average, and the aggregate assets of all 10 local banks is up 4 percent, Joseph Earl Perry, past president of the Newton Banker's Association, told 150 press, radio, bank, and government officials in the annual meeting of the group last week.

Perry took this and other data from the recently released 1950 United States Census of Housing.

He said the average value of Newton homes is $16,798, as against a $10,800 national average. The total local value estimate is $203,107,000.

Estimated rental value of Newton homes is $51,89, compared to a $39 national average. Owners occupy 69.2 percent of the local units, while the national average is only 51 percent. The census shows, he continued, that only 5.7 percent of local homes do not have private baths, while the national figure is 33.2 percent. Less than 1 percent of Newton homes average over 1.5 persons per room, while nationally the figure is 6.1 percent. Whites occupy 99.5 percent of Newton's dwellings.

treatment of cerebral palsy in a school situation. The public is cordially invited and each of the 346 members of the Newton Wellesley Chapter are urged to support this informative meeting as the initial step in promoting and introducing the possibilities of an integrated program for the cerebral palsied within the local area. Such a program would require the assistance and cooperation of many community resources: The Hospital and Medical Association, the School and Recreation Departments and the Social Agencies. Representatives of these groups are considering the first needed steps in providing an integrated program of care and treatment, when funds become available through public interest, concern and support.

Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood will bring greetings from the City of Newton in support of this new concern, at the April 30 meeting at Warren Junior High School, West Newton.

Henry G. Schafer Given Testimonial Dinner Here

The Newton Agency of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. tendered their manager, Henry G. Schafer, a testimonial dinner in honor of his 45th anniversary. Mr. Schafer started his career with the John Hancock in April, 1907, as a clerk at the Home Office at the age of 17.

Officials of the company, past and present associates of Mr. Schafer, were present as invited guests. Among them were Frank Maher, vice-president; Paul Egan, regional manager; Donald Bramley, regional supervisor; Frank Hadden, retired; Frank Danahy, Home Office employee, for whom Mr. Schafer worked 47 years ago; and Manager Angus M. Issac, of the Somerville office.

All the guests participated in the speaking program extolling the contribution of Mr. Schafer in his 47 years of service with the company, in making the John Hancock one of the leading insurance companies. Many anecdotes and high lights of Mr. Schafer's career were also cited.

William Hannon, agent, was the toast-master. Assistant Manager Maxwell Weinberg, spoke, representing the assistant staff and Mr. Raymond Bowman, office supervisor, spoke in behalf of the office staff. Office Debit Representative Maurice Holberg, as spokesman for the agents, presented Mr. Schafer a gift, in honor of his anniversary, from the entire agency force.

Miss Constance Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Montague P. Ford, 112 Herrick road, Newton Centre, is in the spring program of Orchesis, modern dance honorary at Denison University, Granville, Ohio. She is a senior.

Two Meetings Held By Taft Club Members in Newton

Under the chairmanship of Quinby Taylor, members of the Taft for President Club of Newton in Ward 3 scheduled two meetings at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Edward Wagenknecht at 233 Otis street, West Newton.

The first meeting was held last Sunday afternoon and the second meeting last night (Wednesday). At the first meeting it was voted to mail out to all Republicans and Independents in Ward 3, who had not been called by telephone, a personal letter prepared by Prof. Wagenknecht of the English Department at Boston University.

Prof. Wagenknecht is a critic anthropologist of national reputation, author of some 25 books and appears in Who's Who. His wife, Dorothy, is chairman of Precinct 2 in Ward 3 of the Taft Club of Newton.

In the special letter he has prepared for the Taft Club, he states that on domestic issues General Eisenhower is a political unknown, who either does not know what he believes or realizes that the American people would reject him if they knew of his Socialistic beliefs; while on foreign issues Ike's theories are those of the Roosevelt-Truman, New Deal-Fair Deal, which under Ike's command permitted the Russians to take Berlin, and the Soviet military might to bloom as a result of the Potsdam conference of which Ike was a part.

On the positive side, the Professor's letter points out that Senator Taft has kept the light of freedom burning in the United States against great odds, has fought corruption at every turn, has received the large labor vote in the cities for having protected them against military conscription by Truman during the rail strike, given labor equal rights in their unions against their dictatorial labor bosses and fought for reasonable and intelligent cooperation with free men everywhere in the world wherever it was consistent with the peace and liberty of the American people and did not foster back breaking taxation and Socialistic regimentation.

Warning to Motorists

With summer just around the corner, many motorists are swerving into it with the blood of exploring animals on their hands. Dogs, cats, and other four-footed creatures are more likely to skip away from their masters or homes and like the motorist, enjoy the freedom of the out-doors.

Dr. Eric H. Hansen, President of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has called to the attention of the motoring public, the law as it pertains to drivers who accidentally strike animals on the highway. This law requires that, should a motorist hit an animal on the highway, he stop immediately, ascertain the extent of the injuries; then make his identity known or report the accident at once to the nearest police station. Conviction for violation of this law is followed by suspension of the driving license.

An increased number of injured animals are being brought to animal hospitals. Too many drivers speed on the highways, without regard to animals that might want to cross the road or even get out of the way of a vehicle. Leaving a dead or injured animal by the side of the road after an accident, with no report to the nearest police station, is strictly forbidden by law.

Safe driving on the highway not only safeguards these animals, but the happiness of their owners and neighbors, to say nothing of the motorists.

Don't make your Sunday driving a session of slaughter! Don't turn a pet into a memory because of your thoughtlessness!

Cute little fellow, bright and gay
He loved to bark and romp
Joy he brought to us each day
Wagging his tail, for want

First he was a tiny pup
But how he grew and grew!
'Til at eight month—just last night
His short-lived life was through

In a gleeful mood he ran
Down that fatal street
(How was he, poor dog, to know—
That he should stop his feet?)

The car bore down upon our pet
'Twas going o'er the limit
Poor little unsuspecting dog
Was Duke, as the auto hit it

True, he's gone—but not in full
He left for you and me
His bark, his greeting,—Why of course—
He left his memory.

The Music School Auction

A daguerreotype of the famous Jenny Lind is one of the treasures which will be auctioned off for the benefit of the All Newton Music School by the Mothers Auxiliary this Saturday at the Newtonville Woman's Club.

The picture, which is unique and in excellent condition although exactly a hundred years old, shows Miss Lind with her accompanist whom she married a few months later.

Another item of especial interest is an antique lantern covered with genuine lace which is metallized with bronze. Additional pieces to be auctioned off for benefit of the Music School include yards of broad fringe made of fine sterling silver wire, a hanging of antique cut velvet, and an ancient Chinese watercolor.

Besides the many unusual contributions there are hundreds of more conventional gifts, ranging from a washing machine to a banjo, from a Chinese hand-embroidered hanging to a child's sewing machine, from brie-a-brac Victorian and modern to a large wooden six-room dollhouse, from a nut grinder to a rocking chair.

Mr. Arthur T. Gregorian is contributing his services as auctioneer. Mrs. Henry H. Balow is chairman of the auction committee, with Mrs. Arthur W. Johnson as co-chairman.

Don't Be A Litter-bug

Look at the buds on that maple! It's really Spring! Remember that brook out in the country! How about a picnic? You put up some sandwiches while I get out the car. Then we'll get going. Junior still at the comics? Well, shove in the whole paper. We can use it to sit on, or for kindling, or something.

Off they go, Dad so filled with the joy of the clean new spring that he finds him self whistling, "Oh, you have the high road and I'll take the low road." Junior's hungry already? There's a hot dog stand.

Mrs. Louise Geers, who was told to leave a St. Louis bus after a driver declined to change her $5 bill, brought suit against the bus company and was awarded $1500 in damages. The court held that $5 no longer is a bill of large denomination "in the light of changed economic conditions."

OUR NEW ENGLAND

St. Lawrence Seaway To Be Presidential Issue In New England

By JOHN H. CRIDER

Here's a hot dog in a paper holder and napkin. Sis gets a bag of popcorn and Dad a pack of cigarettes. Mom buys a candy bar, though she really shouldn't. Her weight you know. Again they're off. The hot dog is delicious, but what about the napkin? "Don't you dare tuck it in the corner of the seat!" says Mom. "Just throw it out the window! Those funnies are all torn; throw them out, too." There's a fifty dollar fine for this, but perhaps Mom doesn't know—or care. She has finished her popcorn, and out goes the bag on the clean spring high road. Mom's candy bar wrapper, too, and finally Dad's empty cigarette package. But the car is neat; and what difference do a few papers on the road make?

And here is the perfect picnic spot, the brook bubbling along, fuzzy young willows at its edge, a clump of pussy willows nearby. Never a better spot to stir the appetites. Mom had outdone herself on the sandwiches. Beer for Dad and pop for the others. After the feast, a nap for Dad, the rest of the newspaper shading his eyes. Junior played duck-on-a-rock with the beer cans and pop bottles, while Mom and Sis gathered an armful of pussy willows. They didn't have a knife, but the stems split and broke if you pulled hard enough. Dad woke up to demonstrate his old pitching arm. He hadn't lost his eye after all. He sent one bottle flying off the rock in smithereens. Some of the pieces even fell in the brook. But good fun must end. It's growing late; hurry, hurry, we'd better start back.

The picnic ground befouled with papers, cans, broken glass and mutilated bushes; the high road littered from one end to the other with odds and ends! Dad still whistles a little off key. The words should be: "Oh, we took the high road and left you the low road."

If you would enjoy New England in the Spring, let others enjoy it, too. Keep it clean as well as green. Keep a paper bag in your car as a container for your own waste; cigarette papers, beer cans, empty cartons, and take it home to your own ash can.

Remember, every strip of highway is somebody else's front yard. Don't be a litter-bug.

Current Comment

Attention Will Center on GOP Vote . . . Results to Affect Contest for Governor . . .

The political spotlight will center on Massachusetts next Tuesday, and the balloting across the Bay State may play a real part in determining the outcome of the fight for the Republican Presidential nomination.

It will be the nation's last direct test of the popular appeal of General Eisenhower and Senator Taft, and the political signs to date appear to indicate a reasonably impressive victory for Ike.

If past history repeats itself, the turnout of voters will be comparatively small, and the majority of the members of both political parties will observe Presidential primary day by remaining away from the polls.

Political experts will be watching these developments when the G.O.P. ballots are counted next Tuesday night.

1. The write-in vote for General Eisenhower and Senator Taft. Massachusetts law makes no provision for a direct popular vote for Presidential contenders, but a space is provided on the ballot where a voter may write in the name of his Presidential choice.

2. The outcome of the battles between the official Taft slates and the unofficial Eisenhower groups in the 14 Congressional tickets.

3. Whether there is any reflection of public sentiment that might affect the upcoming contest for the Republican nomination for Governor.

Much less significance will be attached to the Democratic balloting. Senator Kefauver is expected to poll the greatest write-in vote, with President Truman probably running second to him despite his pronouncement that he will not stand for another term.

Democratic leaders are hoping that enough sentiment will be displayed for Mr. Truman to help promote a movement to draft him, but the likelihood is that the President will run behind Kefauver.

Only one real Democratic delegate contest will be settled. That will be in the Herter congressional district, which takes in Roslindale, West Roxbury, Jamaica Plain, Mission Hill, the two Back Bay wards, Brookline and Newton.

There a Kefauver slate of political unknowns will battle a group of Democratic professionals designated by the Democratic State Committee. The Kefauver standard-bearers are depending on the pledge to the Tennessee Senator, which appears below their names on the ballot, to offset the fact that their opponents are much better known.

Members of the so-called official State Committee slate are City Councillor Michael J. Ward of Allston, State Senator John F. Collins of Roxbury, Representative Louis K. Nathanson of Roxbury and Mrs. Mary E. McDonnell of Jamaica Plain, a member of the Democratic State Committee.

The Kefauver backers, most of them university professors, are John Powers Mallan of Newton, George D. Blackwood of the Back Bay, Robert J. Kelso of the Back Bay and Dace J. Moore of Roxbury.

That is the only really significant fight in the entire Democratic primary, and it would be a terrific victory for Kefauver if his supporters should prevail.

Except for scattered opposition, the other Democratic candidates for delegates are unopposed and are assured of election.

Because of the fact that the Democratic politicians won't be bound by the write-in vote or probably pay much attention to it, Kefauver is not making the same drive for support here that he did in New Hampshire six weeks ago.

Governor Dever is trying, with moderate success, to have the members of the state's Democratic delegation remain uncommitted until he decides where he will throw his weight.

The difficulty is that the Republican national convention will not be held until after the Republican State assembly, but, of course, even after the assembly one could retire in favor of the other if political events should take an unexpected turn.

Gibbons will have a Taft pledge printed beneath his name on the ballot. If its drawing power should be such as to cause him to run ahead of men such as Lodge and Saltonstall, he obviously would have to be reckoned with as a gubernatorial contender.

At this writing, it is our opinion that Eisenhower will top Taft by a sizeable margin on the write-in vote and that Ike will capture the bulk of the delegate votes in the various congressional districts.

The Taft backers seem stronger in a few districts, and in some areas close fights may develop. But from an overall standpoint this appears to shape up as a decisive victory for General Eisenhower. Our long-range guess is that Ike will win about 19 or 20 of the district delegates, Taft about 9 or 10.

Laud Newton Fire Department

The following open letters to the Newton Fire Chief John E. Corcoran are an indication of the efficiency of our Fire Chief and the men who serve under him in the department.

Sincerely,
Henry S. C. Cummings
Secretary, Oak Hill Improvement Assn. Inc.

Mr. Arthur Heinzelman
Fire Chief John E. Corcoran:
We wish to commend you and your department for the way in which you handled the fire at the Mother's Rest property on Puddington Lane on April 8th as to confine the loss to the kitchen wing alone. This fire might have leveled the entire property in the vicinity because it apparently had been burning some time before it was discovered.

We are proud that Oak Hill has such efficient fire fighters and excellent equipment to cope with such emergencies and that the Fire Station is so located in our center as to offer the community the maximum in protection.

Sincerely,
Gertrude Hanson
The Salvation Army

Fire Chief John E. Corcoran:
We want to pay tribute to the firemen who did such fine work on Tuesday, April 16, clearing away the dangerous portion of the camp. They certainly worked as a team, not sparing themselves in any way.

Notified Mother Safely Evacuated In Flood Area

News that her 94 year old mother who has been living alone in Council Bluffs, Iowa, had been safely evacuated from the flood area, and is staying with friends, was received by Mrs. Blanch Webber, of Brook Street, Newton, through the Newton Red Cross Disaster Inquiry service this week. Mrs. Webber was also informed that her nieces and nephews also of Council Bluffs, had been evacuated from the danger zones and were staying with friends. All were well and safe according to the report returned by the Council Bluffs Chapter.

According to the latest report received from National Red Cross headquarters, $10,000,000 and possibly more will be needed for the rehabilitation of families in the new flood area. Funds appropriated by the government are for the rebuilding of roads and public property, and do not meet the human needs of the 26,000 families who have been made homeless. Pointing out that during the present fiscal year the organization has already spent or committed more than $22,000,000 for disasters, not including the present floods, E. Roland Harriman, National Red Cross President urged that chapters continue to solicit funds to meet disaster needs.

Maxwell P. Gaddis, Chairman of the Newton Chapter, states that some voluntary donations have been received for relief of flood sufferers, including $1.20 brought in by four youngsters who held a lemonade sale to raise funds for the disaster victims.

"Our local campaign for funds, which was held in March, has netted to date only 93% of its quota," he declared. This is most unfortunate in view of the unprecedented series of disasters which have occurred this year. The American Red Cross has been on the job in every one of these disasters, and cannot let the people of the flooded areas down. We must rely on the generosity of the American people, who have never failed to come to the aid of others in distress, to provide Red Cross with the means to help these latest disaster victims.

Waban Man Is Elected Senior V-President

Anthony F. Noll of 1880 Beacon Street, Waban, has been elected a senior vice president of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, according to an announcement by S. Bruce Black, president of the company.

Formerly vice president heading the company's sales department, Mr. Noll now will direct Liberty Mutual's newly created national risks department.

He joined the company as an underwriter in the New York office in 1917, served with the Tank Corps in World War One after which he returned to sales work for the company. In 1920 he was resident manager of the Liberty Mutual Buffalo, N.Y., office and in 1929 was manager of the general sales department in the New York office. In 1933 he became a vice president and in 1938 was named to the head of the company's sales department from the Boston home office.

The meeting is open to the public.

There will be a short business meeting which will include the Treasurer's report and the election of officers and new board members. Refreshments will be served.

Dr. Richard H. Overholt, renowned chest surgeon, will be the speaker of the afternoon and will discuss "Newer Surgical Methods in the Treatment of Tuberculosis." He will show illustrations slides.

Dr. Overholt is clinical professor of surgery at Tufts Medical School. He is thoracic surgeon on the staff of the New England Deaconess Hospital, the New England Medical Center, and the Cambridge Sanatorium. He is consultant to various New England sanatoria.

During the coming year the health education, rehabilitation, and case finding programs will be continued and expanded.

The health education service makes available to the public pamphlets, health posters, films, and exhibits so that Newton people may obtain up-to-date information on tuberculosis and other health subjects. Materials for school children, nurses, teachers, industries, and the general public are available.

The rehabilitation service provides counseling, testing, and vocational guidance for tuberculosis patients and helps in finding jobs for those leaving the sanatorium.

Atkinson is a graduate of the Harvard School of Business Administration and the Northeastern University School of Law. He served in the United States Navy during World War II, and is now a professor of economics and political science at Boston University. He has served two terms in the State Legislature and was formerly in the investment banking field.

The rehabilitation service efforts the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association attempts to find tuberculosis in its early stages. Mass X-ray surveys for industries and the general public will continue to be held periodically, since a chest X-ray is the best way of finding TB long before the individual feels ill, and before the disease has had a chance to spread to healthy individuals. Earlier discovery of tuberculosis cases means a shorter and less costly illness.

Welcomed Home

The many friends of Donald H. Nash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Nash of 200 Church street, Newton, will be pleased to learn that he has arrived in this country.

Eliabeth M. Eaton

Funeral services for Miss Elizabeth Mary Eaton of 231 Central street, Auburndale, retired member of the Science Department at Newton High School, were held Monday, April 14, at 1 p.m., in the Gregg Chapel, Newtonville. Burial was in the family lot at Goffstown, N.H. She died on Good Friday, April 11.

Her teaching career covered a span of more than 35 years. She was graduated from Pinkerton Academy, Derry, N.H.; Framingham Teachers' College and 10 years later, Pembroke College in Brown University. After teaching at Hopedale, Mass., she came to Newton where she taught in the 8th grade in Auburndale. Then she took four years off for study and was graduated from Pembroke College, A.B., 1909, returning to Newton as teacher in Biology and Health Education in the Technical High School, at its opening, continuing until her retirement in 1934.

Miss Eaton, who was a native of Grassmere, N.H., was a member of the Auburndale Review Club; Boston Women's City Club; Newton Teachers' Club and held a Phi Beta Kappa Key which she earned in her junior years at Brown. She traveled extensively in the United States and Europe.

Her ability in her profession was of a high order. Some of her work in health education was used at Columbia University where she went for special study. In the classroom, she created an atmosphere of unusual charm, as is attested by her use of a statue of the Winged Victory for teaching posture and character in this connection. She quoted Bliss Carman: "With all the ease and splendid poise

Of one who triumphs without noise,
Wilt thou not teach us to attain
Thy sense of power without strain,
That we a little may possess
Our souls with thy sure loveliness.—

That calm the years cannot deface,
Thou Victory of Samothrace?"

SPOTLIGHT ON THE NEWTONS

By RALPH and TUNNI COOLIDGE

DIRECTOR OF NEWTON PLAYERS. John J. Collier, points up a scene to cast of play, Father of the Bride, which will be presented this Friday and Saturday at Newton High School Auditorium. On stage receiving directions are: (left to right)—Dr. Alden Q. Abbott, who plays Father; Mrs. Mary Gura, Mother; Robert W. Swedberg, Groom; and Miss Grace E. Cavanagh, Bride.

Whether or not you have ever had a wedding in your family, you will howl with laughter at the pandemonium that beset a young man about to forever tie his life with another, the doubts, temper explosions, and desperate longings to have the occasion done with, are also portrayed.

The bride's problems of being caught between an elopement-minded husband to be, and correct social behavior and her own desire to be a real bride, add to the interest and drama. The various duties of the bride's mother, her brothers, the maid, friends, and especially the actions of the caterer, Mr. Masoula, and dressmaker, Mrs. Pultski, all build to an exciting climax, the wedding.

The Newton Players were fortunate in obtaining as director of "Father of the Bride", John J. Collier of 62 Hyde Park avenue. This play is the first Mr. Collier has directed for the Newton Players. He has guided many plays to completion, however, for the Couples Club at Grace Episcopal Church.

Director Collier's theatre experience dates back to his Harvard Dramatic Club days, from which he joined the Jitney Players and the professional Boston Stock Company.

Dr. Alden Q. Abbot, who plays the lead as the bride's father, Mr. Banks, has been five years in little theater plays. He is vice president of the Hovey Players of Waltham, who enacted the roles of atom victims during the recent air raid drill. He is a valuable addition to the Newton Players for "Father of the Bride."

On stage, Dr. Abbott portrays the average, though energetic father. His philosophy on stage seems to flow quite naturally. With his charming personality and eloquent delivery of speech, Abbott excellently portrays the harried but capable, "Father of the Bride."

He particularly enjoys his lines in Act II where he innumerate the woes of the bride's father, "You get on a moving belt and you never get off again. Champagne salesmen, caterers, photographers, who's going to do the flowers, dressmakers, underwear people, baggage, eight bridesmaids, dresses for all of them, silver, linen, presents—paper and boxes all over the house so you can't sit down!"

The lines which seem to be so fluid with Dr. Abbott are memorized en route from home to office. In private life, he is president of the staff of the Massachusetts Osteopathic Hospital, and maintains his practice in Waltham.

The part of the bride is enacted by Miss Grace E. Cavanagh, 18 Moffat road, Waban. She has been with the Newton Players for two years. This player has a yen for character parts that proved successful during her training at Chestnut Hill College. Her red hair and hazel eyes sparkled as we asked her favorite scene. "I most enjoy the fight scene, with the groom where I 'blow up,'" she said. An dthe sweet temper of the bride does show the fire in this accomplished actress as she tearfully screams to her future husband and shoves a letter into his hand, "Take your mother's letter, you read it!"

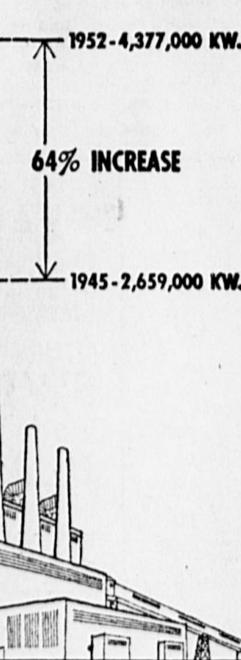

Her gown will be a treat for the audiences. Miss Cavanagh will carry a prayer book with streamers, and her headdress will be a crown with pearls and

"boards", dissected, solved, and finally, philosophized. The emotional upheavals that beset a young man about to forever tie his life with another, the doubts, temper explosions, and desperate longings to have the occasion done with, are also portrayed.

The play takes place in a middle-class living room, comfortably furnished. Throughout the play, the innumerable problems that face every father of a bride are thrown out upon the

When war ended in 1945, New England had 2,659,000 kilowatts of electricity for public use. Right then, with the lifting of war-time restrictions, the business-managed electric companies launched a huge program of new construction. They promised to add 1,500,000 kilowatts to New England's supply of electric power — by December 1952!

The fulfillment of that promise is now in sight — and for an even larger increase than originally pledged. By the end of this year New England will have at its service a total of 4,377,000 kilowatts — up 1,718,000 or 64.6% since 1945!

With the great "catching up" job accomplished, your electric companies are already deep in plans for the future. The development of more and more electric power for New England homes, commerce and industry is a continuing mission of the tax-paying electric utilities of our six-state region.

JUDGE for YOURSELF

A Statement

Editor, Newton Graphic:
Since I am a candidate, for alternate delegate to the Republican Convention from the 10th Congressional District, your readers are entitled to know why I favor the candidacy of General Eisenhower.

The popular strength of Eisenhower grows out of the conviction of the average American, that disunion and distrust in American politics are becoming insufferable. Our people are better than many of the dishonest men who humiliate us, and we are entitled to something a lot better than we are getting.

I am for the man who said: "The best foreign policy is to live our daily lives in honesty, decency and integrity; at home, making our land a more fitting habitation for free men; and abroad, joining with those of like mind and heart, to make the world a place where all men can dwell in peace."

There are, of course, many specific matters on which General Eisenhower has not been able to take a stand, but I feel strongly that his published statements prove that he is definitely "right of center" on domestic issues, but is clearly committed to social progress. He is passionately devoted to the American way of life, which means individualism, cooperation and faith.

The people want, he said, "renewed assurance of the vitality of the two-party system; honesty in government; recognition that our resources are not unlimited and that reckless taxing and spending can be fatally dangerous; a unifying administration in Washington that breathes the spirit of fair play and consideration for all citizens; and finally a foreign policy handled intelligently and firmly."

This is the man we can trust, and I, for one, would like to have him for our next President.

I Am For Taft

Editor, Newton Graphic:
I am supporting Robert Taft for president because I am weary unto death of New Deal corruption at home and warmongering abroad. He is our only chance to end either, the only candidate who has seen through New Deal policies from the beginning, and the only candidate not supported by pseudo-republicans who wish to "rig" the election in advance by maneuvering a nomination which will once more give the electorate a choice between Tweedledee and Tweedledee.

There need be no doubt in anybody's mind where Senator Taft stands. But who knows where General Eisenhower stands on any domestic issue, if, indeed, he has ever thought about any such issue, or is qualified to hold an opinion? Supporting Eisenhower at this stage is like buying a pig in a poke. Even if he should declare himself, this quality would remain, for Eisenhower's civilian administrative capacity is untested.

Our foreign policy, of course, we know where Eisenhower stands. He was Roosevelt's hand-picked general. He acted as Truman's adviser at the disastrous Potsdam conference, which built up Soviet military might in Europe. He supports UMT and the squandering of American wealth and manpower all over the globe. His foreign policy is the New Deal foreign policy.

New Deal foreign policy and New Deal domestic policy go together. Giddy minds thrive on foreign wars. New Deal foreign policy means ruinous taxation, permanent conscription, and the garrison state. It means a steady narrowing of the area within which free enterprise is possible, a continually increasing intolerance of dissent and freedom of thought. Ultimately it means an American totalitarianism.

Senator Taft's election would mean a return to the American way of life, without the abuses which made the New Deal revolution possible. Its foreign policy does not spell "isolationism," which is a meaningless word; it merely means cutting our coat to suit our cloth; if we do not do this soon, we shall find ourselves without cloth and suit alike, and then we can no longer serve either Europe or ourselves. It rejects the Roosevelt-Truman brand of internationalism which, instead of helping other nations to help themselves, turns America into a muck-cow, and jumps, even without provocation, into every war that breaks out anywhere upon the planet.

Senator Taft may be America's last chance to save herself from the steady suicide that has been in progress since 1932. A vote against him is tantamount to a declaration that you support confiscatory taxation and consider the death of your sons in needless wars upon Asiatic battlefields a sufficient compensation for everything that the politicians can ask of you.

For Eisenhower

Editor, Newton Graphic:
I was for Taft—now I am for Eisenhower.

Taft was first in his Class at Yale—he was first in his Class at the Harvard Law School—he is first in the United States Senate. "Mr. Republican" would be a good President.

But—but—Walter Lippman points out that the Gallup Poll gives 40 percent of the voters Democratic—32 percent Republican, 28 percent Independent. Thus with a voting population of 55 million, there are about 22 million Democrats, only 17.5 million Republicans, and 15.5 million Independents. There are 4½ million more Democrats than Republicans. Thus for the Republicans to win, they must get the support of most of the Independents.

After 20 years of Democratic rule, a change is vital for the nation. Corruption and inefficiency come by having either the Democratic or the Republican Party in power too long.

Now Taft might win, but Eisenhower—the master of men—the popular personality—will surely win.

And we need a sure winner—Eisenhower.

It's easy to see why the Republicans have been losing continuously. Folksy little "tidbits" are not enough. The people want to know what the candidates will do and how he stands on major issues. All we heard was: "Eisenhower can win"—the job of President is too big and important for us to take a chance.

Taft is a fighter. Taft knows the ropes. Taft is brilliant. Taft will clean out the State Department. We know where he stands. "Taft likes U.S."

Police News

Editor, Newton Graphic:

A police station is probably one of the last places you will ever want to visit—officially, that is. But having as a newspaperman, seen many police stations, I could not help but be impressed with the air of politeness, courtesy and all-around efficiency that I found on a recent visit to the Newton Police headquarters. And in order that there be no misunderstanding, I wasn't escorted there by one of the men in blue. Nevertheless, if you have ever had occasion to visit police stations, as the writer has, you will generally find an air of gruffness, and downright disregard for you either as an individual or as a citizen. Why this is, is more than I have been able to fathom out but in most of the police stations you're convicted before you even open your mouth yet the law clearly says no man is guilty until proven so. But not so the Newton police headquarters. There, as I have said, you are treated with every courtesy toward a culprit or an individual but a mighty fine group of men from Chief Purcell right down the line. Those few words are deserved. Heavens knows the average policeman and police department get plenty of abuse. Why not then, when it's deserved, hand them out a commendation.

Summer must be near. Thefts of money from two wallets, two bicycles from a garage, flowers from a garden and camping equipment from a yard were reported stolen to the police Monday. Seems as though some folks are just too darned lazy to go buy the things they need for their summer vacation. They'd rather just pick things up where they find them.

An elderly pedestrian was arrested after a chase by Metropolitan police last week, was fined a total of $40 and given a suspended sentence of two weeks in the House of Correction by Judge James E. Luby in the Newton District Court Monday. Another motorist, who allegedly struck three parked cars in Newton, was fined $60. Both individuals, it appears, had also imbibed a little too freely with something more than water.

An elderly pedestrian was critically injured on the Worcester turnpike in Newton Highlands Sunday, and the operators of two cars involved in a collision last Friday afternoon were also injured, according to reports to the police traffic division.

The loss of a pocketbook containing $25, from the Cabot School Playground, Newtonville, was reported to police last Thursday by Nina Polumbaum of 123 Norwood Avenue, Newtonville.

Mrs. Kelia Kershaw, 76, of 104 Tremont Street, Brighton, was injured when she tripped on the corner last Thursday afternoon, according to a report to the police.

If you have a youngster who owns a bicycle, better have a bicycle equipped with luminous tape which the police safety bureau, in conjunction with the Jenny Company, is now offering free. Safety Officer Charles Seeley hopes every youngster's bicycle in the city will be so equipped, particularly for night riding purposes.

The hanging of May Baskets by children is an old New England tradition. It is a token of love and friendship; an announcement of Spring and good cheer.

Starting with May Day, children place gaily filled May Baskets on the doorstep of a friend's home shout "May Basket!" and run away.

May Baskets are not only given by children but also are delivered to loved ones, to invalids and shut-ins.

Our beautiful assortment of traditional May Baskets and wholesome candies has been chosen with but one thought in mind: to help you in expressing your friendship in the easiest possible way.

Newton Downs Rindge 5 To 4 On Only Two Hits

In the opening game of its league season, Newton just managed to squeak by Rindge Tech by a score of 5 to 4. The game played last week at the Newton High diamond, was won by the local boys on just 2 hits for the entire nine innings.

Newton can thank its stars that Rindge collapsed for a short while during the 5 run fourth inning or the outcome might have been another matter.

Rindge shortstop Joe Cincotta, who had made a couple of glittering stops, provided some of the impetus for Newton's 5 run fourth when he booted Fred Dauten's hot grounder. Don Flagg then sacrificed and Bob Shepherd hit a routine grounder to third baseman Fran Wallace, who ignored Shepherd and tried to pick Dauten off second, although Fred was standing only a few feet from the second base bag. Wallace's throw backfired and Newton had men on first and second with one out.

Bob O'Neill was then credited with Newton's first safety when he tapped weakly to Wallace. Fran came in on the grass to field the ball and didn't even throw to first, feeling O'Neill had the grounder beaten out. Rindge pitcher Jeff Conroy then walked Pete Rigby with the bases jammed to give Newton its first run and the second run scored when Conroy hit Forbes with a pitch as Shepherd was trotting in from third on a squeeze play. At this point, Newton quickly tried another squeeze play. This time Fiske bunted back to Gamst, who had no play at the plate but might have thrown out Fiske at first had he not bobbed the ball. John Kreider strolled to force in Rigby with the fourth Newton score and Hamill chased in the fifth with a fly that Buttaro caught in deep center. Dauten terminated the spree by grounding out. That just about tells the story of the entire game, as far as Newton was concerned.

3-Run First Inning Beats Newton Nine

Newton dropped a non-league game to Brockton High at Brockton Friday afternoon by a score of 5 to 4, with Brockton practically sewing up the game with a 3-run first inning. The game was Newton's second setback in four starts.

Brockton scored its 3 runs on a hit with errors and walks playing the big part in winning the Shoe City outfit its 3 runs. Undaunted, however, with its poor start, the Orange nine got busy and scored 1 run in the third, 2 in the fourth and 1 in the fifth to take a 4 to 3 lead over Brockton.

Brockton, however, was not to be denied and in the seventh put across the winning and final run of the game when Capt. Danny Rock singled in the pay-off run with one away.

Orange Nine Becoming Hitless Wonders

With important league games coming up rapidly in the next month, the Orange nine of Newton High School will have to start a robust hitting streak or win their coming games as the hitless wonders. The nine in its first four games is batting a puny .193. Hardly an average to win many games despite excellent twirling.

In addition to the game played yesterday (Wednesday) with Waltham, Newton will meet Brookline tomorrow (Friday) and Watertown next Tuesday, three League games which well might make or break the Orange nine's chances for a top berth.

The hitting of the team is not as bad as the average would indicate for on the nine are some potentially strong batters. It may be that the Orange

A social hour at 1:30 preceded the program.

Dear Senator:

This is to urge you to vote against House Bill No. 1326. The Parent-Teacher Association of the Memorial School of Oak Hill Park, at a recent executive board meeting, unanimously voted that this letter be sent. This executive board believes that our present system of independent school committees has worked successfully in the past and is now working successfully.

The proposed bill would make the school committees subservient to the Mayors, the City Councils, and the Boards of Aldermen of the various cities and towns, and would, thereby, intersect politics in our local school systems. The proposed legislation would also result in placing the school systems of our Commonwealth on the level with the street, sanitation and other departments of our cities and towns, which could only cause a drop in the high standards of public education.

Mrs. Melvin Darack,
16 Considine road,
Newton Centre.

Dear Mrs. Darack:
I have your letter urging opposition to H-1326. This bill has been given an adverse report by the committee and I shall be surprised if it reaches the Senate.

Their problem of integrating school expenditures into the general municipal budget is a difficult one and there is something to be said for the mayor and aldermen having some part in the process. Personally, I would favor giving the mayor a veto power with the provision that the school committee could pass questioned items over his veto by two-thirds vote.

As long as the school committee controls the hiring of teachers and all details of schedule and curriculum, it seems to me that they would be sufficiently independent, and, of
